No. 9352.

DUBLIN CASTLE,

28th July, 1894.

SIR,

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th instant, forwarding, for submission to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, the Twenty-sixth Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records and Keeper of the State Papers in Ireland.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed)

D. HARREL.

The Deputy Keeper,

Public Record Office,

Four Courts.

THE TWENTY-SIXTH REPORT
OF THE
DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS
AND KEEPER OF THE STATE PAPERS
IN IRELAND,

TO THE RIGHT HONORABLE BARON
HOUGHTON,

LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

1. This year has witnessed the transfer to this Department of the Records of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace of the last of the Counties named in the Order of Council of the 22nd May, 1891, viz., Tipperary, Wexford, and Limerick. In this Report are incorporated Schedules of the Records of Sligo, Tipperary, and Wexford; but the Records of Limerick not having been transferred until the very end of the year, and in bad order and condition, it has not been possible to prepare an accurate Schedule of them before they shall have undergone careful examination and arrangement.

2. It was necessary to point out to the Clerk of the Crown and Peace of the County and City of Limerick that a large proportion of the contents of the earlier baskets forwarded by him were hardly in a condition to be used as Records, being much mouldered away from damp, eaten by insects, and generally in a dirty and even stinking condition, and that maps and plans that had been deposited within comparatively recent years were rotten from the effects of damp.

3. The increments accrued, since the initial transfer to the end of the year 1872, for the Counties of Carlow, Cavan, Down, Dublin County and City Crown Office, Fermanagh, Kerry, Londonderry, Longford, Louth, Mayo, Meath, Queen's County, and Sligo, have been transferred. Those for Sligo and Londonderry contained many records of an earlier date than 1871-72, omitted to be deposited at the first transfer, and that for Sligo has been included in the Schedule of the original transfer, as its arrangement had not been completed when the increment arrived.

4. The Elders of the French Huguenot Conformed Churches of St. Patrick and St. Mary, Dublin, have deposited here, under the 16th Section of the Public Records (Ireland) Act, the Baptismal, Burial, and Marriage Registers of those Churches, extending from 1680 to 1830, with the exception of a gap for the Baptisms of St. Patrick's from 1687 to 1716. These Registers have been printed in extenso by the Huguenot Society of London.

See par.
91 and 97.

5. Amongst the papers of the late Dr. Reeves, Bishop of Down Connor and Dromore, was an official copy of a Chancery Inquisition taken at Antrim, 12th July, 1605 (3 James I.), finding the title of the Crown to the territory of the Lower Clandeboy, comprising most of the lands afterwards granted to James Hamilton, Shane O'Neill, Cahel O'Hara, Neill Oge M'Neill, and Arthur Bassett. This copy was made in the Rolls Office sometime previous to the year 1692, and was produced in Chancery in the cause of Mathews v. Gilbert in that year. It consists of 58 pages—some 200 folios. The original of this Inquisition is not now extant, nor would it appear to have been so in the time of the late Record Commission. Through the permission of the Lords of the Treasury this copy has been purchased for this Department. A précis in English is given of it as Appendix I., the other Chancery Inquisitions for Antrim having been calendared and printed by the late Record Commissioners.

Appendix I.

State Paper Office.

6. During the year there were received from the Chief Secretary's Office the State Papers for 1884 in 108 cartons, with three cartons of special papers of the years 1881-2; also the Correspondence Registers for the year 1882—five large volumes. From the Convict Department of the Chief Secretary's Office came the papers of five years—1884 to 1888.

7. The papers received from the Chief Secretary's Office were examined and checked, and replaced in 88 cartons—Nos. 2950-3036 and 3116-8; and the Convict Papers in 79 cartons—3037-3115.

8. The arrangement of the Papers of the Military Division of the Chief Secretary's Office has been continued and completed, as far as concerns those which form series; those arranged have been wrapped in brown paper, and tied up in about 720 parcels.

9. The books of the Convict Department and Prisons Office have been arranged, labelled, and catalogued.

10. Two additional shelves have been fitted for books in the Index Room, and have been filled with index books.

11. A number of papers received in former years out of their proper places had remained in cartons arranged according to their years only. The restoration of these to their places in the registered papers has been commenced; the contents of ten cartons have been examined, identified, traced in the register, and restored to their places; the papers so treated extend back to 1861.

12. The draft Index to Petitions has been completed. A fair copy has been engrossed, forming a folio volume of 408 pages, and placed for reference in the Search Room at the Record Office.

13. The Calendar of the British Departmental Correspondence has been continued to 1759, and is nearly completed.

14. The Military Memorials, 1752 to 1802 (one of the series of Military papers prepared for transfer) have been placed in six cartons, and a draft index to them has been commenced, and considerable progress made with it.

15. Progress has been made on a general report on the State Paper collections.

16. The Search Book has been indexed up to date.

17. In addition to the work on the papers themselves, their security has been further ensured by the introduction of a system of hot-water heating to replace the use of the fireplaces hitherto in use in the rooms of the Tower.

18. The number of Government searches made during the year was 300. This number is very much in excess of the preceding year, and is indeed the largest number yet required in a similar period.

19. The papers of the former Military Division of the Chief Secretary's Office were, during the year, transferred to the Record Office—vide paragraph 41.

Vide par. 41.

20. There were also transferred a series of volumes known as "Lodge's MSS.," which had been left amongst their other papers by the late Record Commission. The compiler of these was John Lodge, a distinguished Genealogist, and the author of the well-known Peerage. He was Deputy Keeper of the Rolls, and Keeper of the Records in the Bermingham Tower. On his death in 1774 he left behind him these MSS., consisting of Calendars, Abstracts, and Indexes compiled from the Patent and other Rolls and Records of Chancery under his charge. They were considered of such value, that by a King's letter dated 15th August, 1783, they were directed to be purchased for the Crown on the basis of a pension of £100 a year being granted to Edwarda Lodge, his wife, and of £200 a year to the Rev. William Lodge, his son; and it was directed that these MSS. should be deposited in the Office of the Civil Department of the Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant, with an injunction that, upon no account whatsoever, were any of them to be permitted at any time to be taken out of the said Office. In 1811 the Record Commission, then sitting in the Offices of the Chief Secretary, considering that these MSS. might serve as a basis for arranging and digesting the other Records of the Kingdom, on the 20th February wrote to the Chief Secretary requesting him to hand them over to the Commission for the purposes of references, transcript, or such other purpose as the Board might direct. By a minute of the 25th February, they were accordingly sent to the Record Commission. A sub-Commission sat with a view of examining into the method and form adopted by Lodge, and the publication of the two volumes of the Patentees was entrusted to a sub-committee. This work was afterwards committed to Mr. Lascelles, and resulted in the printing of the "Liber Hiberniae."

21. Mr. E. K. Bunbury Tighe has lodged here, under the 16th Section of the Public Records (Ireland) Act, 1867, the Corporation Book of Innistogue, 1669-1714; the Minutes of the Kilkenny Navigation Board, 1737-1769; and the Corporation Book of Thomastown, 1743-1746.

22. There have been transferred and deposited here during the past year Records from the under-mentioned Courts and Offices as set out in the following lists:—

Sorting and Arrangement of Records.

75. The Bills and Answers of the Court of Chancery and the Equity side of the Court of Exchequer, after their transfer here, were arranged, chiefly from considerations concerning economy of space, in small fasciculi hung upon slight pine wood slats in deep open trays (see Second Report, paragraphs 44 to 52, pp. 19 and 20). This arrangement, after an experience of over five and twenty years, has been proved to be defective and injurious to the documents intended to be preserved, inasmuch as, exposed in these open trays to air and light, they tended to become brittle, and could not be kept free from dust; then the wooden slats, becoming dried up from time to time, were unequal to support the documents hung upon them, with the result that they fell down, and the adjoining slats, deprived of their lateral support, had an increased tendency to give way, causing continued disturbances of the records, and resulting often in the jamming of the trays. With a view to avoid these serious defects, the fasciculi are now being taken from their slats and trays and tied in parcels containing from six to seven, of sufficient width to stand like a book, carefully cleaned and covered with brown paper. These parcels are then placed on ordinary galvanised iron shelving in the sequence of their dates. Every day confirms the value and necessity of covering records in brown paper as the most satisfactory and economical mode of preserving them from dust, drought, damp, and insects. This rearrangement has been commenced with the Chancery Bills of this century and has proceeded to the conclusion of the year 1816, comprising two thousand four hundred and ninety-four fasciculi arranged in three hundred and eighty-two parcels.

76. Nine hundred and sixty-five Chancery and Auditor General's Rolls, and seventeen hundred and sixty-nine parcels of Bankruptcy Cause Papers, Petitions, and Schedules have been covered with brown paper.

77. Fifty-five parcels of See Leases transferred here from the Offices of the Land Commission have been folded to a uniform size.

78. The contents of three thousand five hundred and twenty-two parcels of Records have been stamped, in addition to those stamped daily, previously to being submitted for inspection in the Public Search Room.

79. The Records transferred from the Offices of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace for the Counties of Sligo, Tipperary, and Wexford, and the increments of the County Records transferred from Carlow, Cavan, Down, Dublin County and City, Fermanagh, Kerry, Londonderry, Longford, Louth, Mayo, Meath, Queen's County, and Sligo have been examined and arranged in two thousand six hundred and seventy-three brown papered parcels, and deposited in their final destinations.

80. Some one hundred and seventy-eight Wills, fifty Parish Registers, and forty-two Books and Rolls of various Courts have been repaired, and sixty-two volumes of Inventions Patents, and one hundred and two Miscellaneous Volumes have been bound on the premises.

Indexing and Calendaring.

81. Indexes have been completed to the Marriage Licence Bonds of the Dioceses of Elphin, Kildare, Killala and Achonry, Kilmore and Ardagh, Meath, and Raphoe, and have been placed at the disposal of the public in the Search Room; the draft Indexes to the Marriage Licence Bonds of Cashel and Emly, Limerick, and Killaloe, have been engrossed and compared, that to Clogher has been completed, compared, and engrossed as far as the letter L, and those to the dioceses of Waterford and Lismore and Tuam completed and compared with the originals; for Cork and Ross the draft Index has been finished, and that to Cloyne continued to the letter W.

82. An Index has been inserted in the Elphin Will and Grant Book, 1765-73, and the Killala and Achonry Grant Book, 1800-1857. Draft Indexes have been prepared to the Tuam Will Book, 1641-1820, Down Grant Book, 1794-1813, Clogher Marriage Licence Books, 1813-1828, and 1830-1840.

83. Indexes have been made to each volume of Landed Estates Court Rentals for the years 1867-1872.

84. The Consolidated Detailed Index to the Records of Chancery has been advanced to page 480, to the Bankruptcy Records to page 137, to the Records of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace to page 319 of vol. 1, and to page 15 of a second volume; to the Common Pleas collection to page 426, to the Equity Exchequer to page 239, to the Law Exchequer to page 456, to the Queen's Bench to page 507, to the Record Tower collection to page 401, and to the Revenue Exchequer to page 415.

85. When searching the Memoranda, Plea and Miscellaneous Rolls for any entry that might appear thereon of Petitions to Parliament, so as to supplement the materials already in hand relating to the Irish Statutes, it became manifest that they had been very perfunctorily arranged and catalogued by the late Record Commissioners, who failed to discriminate between the Rolls of Pleas taken before the Justiciary or other Chief Governor, similar to the English series of "Coram Rege" Rolls, those of Pleas taken before the Justices Itinerant, corresponding to the "Assize" and "Coroners" Rolls in England, and those of Pleas taken before the Justices de Banco or Common Bench sitting in Dublin or Carlow. Under these circumstances it has been thought advisable to have the Rolls carefully examined one by one, and their proper class accurately ascertained. This task has been committed to Mr. James Mills, and the results appended in a memorandum from him at Appendix III, dealing with the Plea Rolls from the 36 Henry III. (1252) to the 51 Edward III. (1377). It is intended to continue the examination of this class of Rolls until the end of the reign of Elizabeth. Such a systematic examination and arrangement must be carried out prior to any publication of their contents being undertaken.

86. Progress has been made with the Index to the Christ Church Deeds, but unexpected pressure has prevented its being completed in time for press.

87. The fair copy for the printer of the Index to the Grant Books of the diocese of Dublin prior to the year 1800 has been completed and prepared for press, and will be published as Appendix IV to this report. To make it as full as possible there has been added to it references to the Original Wills of the diocese of Dublin not appearing in the Grant Books, to Archbishop Tregury's Grant Book, 1457 to 1481, preserved in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, and to the Wills of record amongst the Chancery and Exchequer Inquisitions for the Counties of Dublin, Kildare, and Wicklow, the Christ Church Deeds and the Dublin Corporation Records. Appendix IV.

Proceedings under the Parochial Records Acts,

38 & 39 Vic., c. 59, and 39 & 40 Vic., c. 58.

88. The total number of Retention Orders issued up to the present year is 539. Of this number 15 have been recalled, and the Records either removed here, or the Order replaced by another Order. The Reports of Parochial Officers on the remainder, 523, have been received. That for Jonesborough, the Order being issued as late as the 11th October, 1893, was not sent out.

89. Damp was reported in seven parishes, and the same measures which had proved successful in other cases were recommended to be adopted.

90. One of the Parish Registers of Kilmore (Elphin), 1783-1853, included in the Master of the Rolls Warrant dated 26th March, 1885, but not then forthcoming, has been recovered, and transferred here by the Rev. James Carey.

91. The French Huguenot Registers referred to at paragraph 4 have been deposited with this class of Parochial Registers. See pars. 4 and 97.

92. Parishes, the Records of which have been transferred to the Public Record Office in the year 1893:—

| Parish. | County. | Vols. | Baptisms. | Marriages. | Burials. |
|-----------------------|-------------|-------|-----------|------------|-----------|

93. The Registers of the Parishes of Clonoulty and Jonesborough have been retained in local custody under Retention Orders in the year 1893.

94. Registers of the following parishes were bound at the request of the Parochial Custodians:—

Aghold.
Ballysakeery.
Killynn.

Killashee.
Newcastle (2).

St. John's, Limerick (9).
Woods Chapel.

95. The place of deposit was changed in the case of Killyman Parish; the cost of a new inspection was borne by the Incumbent, and a new Order made by His Honor specifying the changed place of deposit.

96. The amount of fees received during the year was £842 10s. 6d., being £81 3s. less than the receipts of the previous year.

APPENDIX II.

EXTRACTS from MR. HERBERT WOOD'S REPORT on the BANKRUPTCY RECORDS, 1857-1872.

In the year 1857 an Act (20 & 21 Vic., c. 60) was passed, whereby the separate existence of the Courts of Bankruptcy and Insolvency in Ireland was terminated, and they were united as the Court of Bankruptcy and Insolvency. But, although joined under the one Court, the procedure still remained different, dealing with two distinct classes of people—Traders and non-Traders—who were unable to discharge their liabilities, and continued so till the year 1872, when the distinction between Bankrupt and Insolvent was done away with under the 35th and 36th Vic., c. 57, and the Court was styled the Court of Bankruptcy.

The principal points in the Act of 1857, as far as concerned the Bankruptcy procedure, were as follows:—The Commissions formerly issued in Bankruptcy were discontinued; the two Commissioners became Judges of the new Court; and the position of Secretary of Bankrupts was taken by a Chief Registrar. Those only could be adjudicated Bankrupts who came within the classification of traders as defined by the Act, and who had committed certain acts prescribed by the Statute as Acts of Bankruptcy. A Trader could file a Petition to have himself adjudicated a Bankrupt, or could file a Petition for arrangement with his Creditors by composition or otherwise, and, if successful, received a protection order, and, finally, a certificate of conformity which discharged him from all liabilities covered by the proceedings in Bankruptcy. If he, however, had committed an Act of Bankruptcy, he might be adjudicated on a Creditor's Petition notwithstanding protection. In Bankruptcies the grant of the certificate of conformity was more or less delayed according to the circumstances of the case and the character of the Bankrupt.

The Records relating to the non-Traders, or the Insolvency side of the Court, were transferred in 1889, and were fully reported on by me in the Deputy Keeper's 22nd Report, Appendix IV., pp. 24 to 33.

I append a description of the various records now transferred.

Arrangement Files.

These were, in the first instance, kept distinct, but were afterwards amalgamated with the Bankruptcy Files, which see.

Arrangement Petition Books, 3 vols., 1857-1872.

These volumes contain abstracts of the various petitions for arrangement made to the Court. They contain the name and description of the Petitioning Trader, the date and hour of filing the Petition, the name of the Official Assignee, the date of certificate when granted, and observations. The number placed before each entry is only a current number, and has no reference to the number of the file containing the papers in the case, which will be found on reference to the Bankruptcy Files (New Series) Index.

Bankruptcy and Arrangement Files (New Series), Nos. 1-3989.

These files contain all the papers in connection with each case of Bankruptcy or Arrangement, and are preserved in separate numbered portfolios. There is an Index to these latter with names arranged in alphabetical order.

Bankruptcy Petition Books. 3 Vols. 1857-1872.

These books contain abstracts of the various Bankruptcy Petitions filed in the Court giving the names of the bankrupt and petitioners, the date and hour of filing Petition, the date of adjudication, the name of the Official Assignee, the date of the Certificate when granted, and observations, agent's name, &c. The number placed before each entry is only a current number, which does not now refer to the number of the file containing the papers in the case; this will be found in the amalgamated Bankruptcy and Arrangement Files (New Series) Index.

Costs Book. 1 Vol. 1858-1871.

This book is a register of the costs of the Petitioning Creditors and Assignees, together with costs which the Court allowed to the Bankrupt or Creditor according to its discretion. It contains the date of lodgment, the name of the matter, the nature of the costs, the solicitor's name, the amount claimed, the amount taxed off, and the amount certified; the date of allocation, with observations. It is indexed for the first page only.

Court Minute Books (Registrar's). 38 vols. 1857-1872.

These books contain rough notes of the proceedings which took place every day in Court. The two first books only are indexed.

Court Sitting Books. 15 vols. 1857-1872.

These books contain notes of the business done each hour of the day, giving the name of the trader, the nature of the sitting, the names of the official assignee and agent; the date of filing Petition, and the hour of the day at which the sitting took place. The first volume is fully indexed, the second only partially, and the rest not at all. The initials written at random over each case indicate the name of the Judge who presided. The numbers at the foot of each case refer to the pages on which will be found entries of other sittings in the same matter.

APPENDIX III.

EARLY ROLLS.

The early rolls of Ireland were arranged and catalogued by the Record Commissioners on the basis only of their places of deposit. Such a catalogue was desirable and necessary as a preparatory step to their proper arrangement. The largest collection—those in the Record Tower, Dublin Castle—were already divided into Pipe rolls and Plea rolls. The former title being applied to all rolls of account, the latter to all others in the repository. This division was maintained by the Record Commissioners although each section in reality included several classes of records. Catalogues of these rolls were printed in Vol. II. of the Record Commissioners' Reports, pp. 79-136.

The rolls in the Chief Remembrancer's Office of the Exchequer—quite as mixed in their contents—were all denominated Memoranda Rolls. Of these a catalogue is printed in the same volume, pp. 522-558.

As to the Patent and Close Rolls of Chancery, it was noticed that they were much scattered, and at an early period of the Commissioners' proceedings nearly fifty of them were transferred from the Record Tower to the Rolls Office. A large number remained in the Chief Remembrancer's Collection and are described in the printed catalogue of the Memoranda Rolls. These were, however, subsequently transferred to the Rolls Office and were included in their proper order in the Calendar of the Patent and Close Rolls of Chancery, Ireland, published by the Irish Record Commissioners.

In a manuscript report on a "Plan for abstracting the Plea Rolls in Birmingham Tower" by Mr. Sleator, one of the Sub-Commissioners of Records, he notices that these rolls include two classes which he denominates—Iter Rolls and Common Bench Rolls. This division is, however, inadequate, and Mr. Sleator seems to have been quite unaware of the existence of other rolls of the series he was dealing with in the Chief Remembrancer's collection. From a catalogue which he appends, it appears that his "Iter Rolls" include what I have called below the Justiciary Rolls, as well as the perfectly distinct and generally dissimilar Rolls of Justices Itinerant; while his "Common Bench Rolls" appear to contain the rolls of proceedings in the Court of King's Bench as well as those of the Common Bench.

Mr. James Hardiman appended to his Report on the Chief Remembrancer's Office an account of the Memoranda Rolls (Reports Rec. Com. Vol. II., p. 622.) In this he notices the confusion of the early records, and suggests the separation of the De Banco and Justiciary Rolls, from the Memoranda Rolls, but apparently without being aware how all these series could be supplemented from the collection of "Plea Rolls."

In tabulating the early rolls, they may be divided into Rolls of Judicial Proceedings, Exchequer Rolls, and Chancery Rolls, including the following series:—

I. Rolls of Judicial Proceedings—

i. Justiciary Rolls.

a. Civil. Continued as Coram Rege or King's Bench Rolls.

b. Criminal: Placita de Corona and Goal Delivery Rolls.

ii. Rolls of Justices Itinerant.

iii. Rolls of the Justices de Banco or Common Bench Rolls.

II. Exchequer Rolls—

i. Pipe or Great Rolls.

ii. Receipt Rolls.

iii. Issue Rolls.

iv. Memoranda Rolls.

III. Chancery Rolls—

i. Patent Rolls.

ii. Close Rolls.

iii. Statute Rolls.

I. i. JUSTICIARY ROLLS.—These contain proceedings before the chief governor of Ireland, usually styled in the earlier reigns "Justiciarius Hibernie," and include entries similar to those of the "Coram Rege" rolls in England. In general they contain civil proceedings only under the headings, "Placita de Juratis et Assisis," "Communia Placita," "Placita Querelarum," and "Essonia." A smaller number are devoted to criminal business under the titles, "Placita de Corona," and "Deliberacio Gaole," and a few of the earlier rolls include both classes of entries. Several rolls contain proceedings before the Parliament; and Acts of the Council are numerous on some of the rolls—especially those for the 33rd and 34th years of the reign of Edward I.

The earliest rolls record the proceedings before the chief governor and his counsellors, like the rolls of the Curia Regis in England. They retain this character to a later period than in England. By the reign of Edward II. however, it incidentally appears that two justices had been appointed as the Justiciary's permanent assessors in the hearing of the cases brought before him. They are called "justiciarii ad placita justiciarium nostrum Hiberniæ sequentia tenenda assignati." Early in the reign of Edward III. one of these was called "capitalis justiciarius ad placita," &c., and it seems probable that the hearing of cases was more completely left to them, though the rolls still contain also entries of matters for which the chief governor and the council must have been directly responsible.

The rolls continued to be entitled "Placita" &c., "coram A. B. Justiciario" (or "locum tenente Regis," or by whatever other title the particular chief governor was styled), until the visit of Richard II. to Ireland in 1394. In his presence the roll was headed "Coram Rege" and this title was henceforth retained, making the rolls similar in form to those of the Court of King's Bench in England.

The proceedings recorded on the Justiciary Rolls being held wherever the Chief Governor was for the time sojourning, form an outline itinerary of his movements through the country, which is of independent historical interest.

I. ii. ROLLS OF JUSTICES ITINERANT.—These correspond with the Assize Rolls and Coroners' Rolls in England. They contain entries of proceedings in civil actions under the titles of "Essonia," and "Placita"; and in crown business under the title "Placita Corone." Under the latter head are included returns of findings on Inquests and lists of persons outlawed and exigented, representing what are called Coroners' Rolls in England. Some rolls also include Gaol Deliveries. The earliest roll of this class belongs to the 36th Henry III. (1252), and is with the exception of one or two of the Pipe Rolls the earliest public roll in Ireland. The series ends with the 34th year of Edward I., although the circuits of Itinerant Justices were frequent in later reigns.

I. iii. ROLLS OF JUSTICES DE BANCO.—These contain the proceedings at the regular term sittings of the Court of Common Bench, established here apparently, as in England, about the beginning of the reign of Edward I. From 1366 to 1394, this court, hitherto fixed at Dublin, sat at Carlow.

The preceding series for the most part make up the collection of Plea Rolls catalogued by the Record Commissioners in the Record Tower, Dublin Castle.

Two volumes of Repertories prepared in the seventeenth century, contain good abstracts of the contents of nearly all the Rolls of this mixed collection to the end of the reign of Edward II. Vol. 1 is from 44th Hen. III. to 31st Edw. I. (including two rolls of Edw. II., treated in error as of Edw. I.). Vol. 2, from 33rd Edw. I. to 20 Edw. II. (including one roll of Edw. III. misplaced as Edw. II.)

With these volumes is another seventeenth century Repertory, containing references to selected entries on 200 Plea Rolls to the reign of Elizabeth, prepared by J. Hardisty. Its value is much diminished by the great difficulty of identifying many of the rolls mentioned. This last volume is well indexed. These three Repertories are in the Record Treasury 3 Q. 154. 2.

Calendars of the Plea Rolls and Memoranda Rolls were commenced under the Record Commissioners. The Calendar of Plea Rolls was continued in twenty manuscript folio volumes, entitled: "Rotulorum Placitorum Calendarium," to the end of the reign of Edw. II., comprising for Henry III. one vol., Edward I. ten vols, Edw. II. nine vols. They are available to the public in the Search Room. Those rolls in the above series, which had been preserved with the Memoranda Rolls and were catalogued by the Record Commissioners with them, are included in the Calendar or transcripts of the Memoranda Rolls. The volumes in which such transcripts are to be found are noted in the following lists.

In these calendars the work has been treated in very different modes. Some of the rolls are transcribed almost in full; others contain short abstracts of the entries; and others have a selection of entries chosen arbitrarily, without any indication of the omissions.

Where the entries have been transcribed, especially in the earlier rolls, the work has generally been carried out with care and accuracy. Where, however, condensation has been attempted, it has usually been carelessly done. In many instances the condensed work is almost worthless, the really important part of the entry being frequently entirely omitted, and the fact of an omission being obscured by the apparently verbatim nature of what is given, the omitted part being only indicated by an "&c." Several of the volumes have been "prepared for press" by another hand. This preparation consists of striking out about three-fourths of the articles, and shortening often into unintelligibility some of the few that are left. This work of revision has been done generally with an utter want of appreciation of the historical value of the materials.

HOUGHTON,

LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

1. I regret to have to report the untimely death, early in the year, of Mr. Alfred J. Fetherstonhaugh, a Junior Clerk in this Department. His distinguished career in Trinity College, Dublin, and the interest and thoroughness he displayed in the discharge of his duties here, pointed him out as one destined to be an ornament to the Public Service. The vacancy caused by his death was filled by the appointment of Mr. T. D. James, B.A.

2. I have also to report the death of Mr. Richard Tucker, who held the post of Foreman Searcher since the formation of the Department in 1868, having been transferred from the Rolls Office, Chancery, where he had served as Bookbinder for many years; he has been succeeded by Mr. J. J. Tucker, promoted from the grade of Workman Searcher.

3. The Records of the Clerk of the Crown and Peace of the County and City of Limerick have been arranged and a schedule of them is given at paragraphs 43 and 44. This completes the transfer and arrangement of the Records of the Counties affected by the Order of Council, dated the 22nd May, 1891. Vide pars. 43 and 44.

4. An Order in Council, dated the 23rd December, 1893, placed the Records of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace of the Counties of King's County and Roscommon under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls. A Schedule of those transferred from King's County will be found at paragraphs 41 and 42, but a fire which took place in Roscommon in the year 1882 destroyed practically all the Records of that County prior to that date. Vide pars. 41 and 42.

State Paper Office.

5. There were received from the Chief Secretary's Office the Letters and Papers of that Department for the year 1885, together with the Correspondence Register and Index (four large volumes) for 1883.

6. The papers received from the Chief Secretary's Office have been examined and checked and placed in seventy-seven carton boxes, numbered 3124 to 3201. Further progress has been made in replacing the numbered files received out of place in former years.

7. The draft Calendar of the British Departmental Correspondence has been completed. The draft Index to the Military Memorials has been finished, and a fair copy engrossed.

8. A re-arrangement and a catalogue has been made of the Chief Secretary's Office and Miscellaneous Manuscript Books deposited in the two upper floors of the Record Tower.

9. The Searches for Government during the year numbered two hundred and ninety-seven, very nearly the largest number registered during a like period.

Vide par. 31. 10. The Papers and Books transferred to the Public Record Office are detailed in paragraph 31. The Papers comprise those completing the two important series, viz., British Departmental Correspondence (practically ending in 1759, though by some additional papers carried down to 1795) and Petitions, and the whole of the smaller series of Military Memorials. These papers had been retained in the State Paper Office to allow of the completion of their Index.

11. There have been transferred and deposited here Records from the undermentioned Courts and Offices as set forth in the following Schedules:—

CONTENTS

APPENDIX.

Index to Calendar of Christ Church Deeds, contained in Appendices to 20th, 23rd, and 24th Reports.

CALENDAR OF CHRIST CHURCH DEEDS,

1174 TO 1684,

CONTAINED IN APPENDICES TO 20TH, 23RD, AND 24TH REPORTS.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

A calendar of the early portion of the series of Records known as Christ Church Deeds, deposited here, has been printed as appendices to the 20th, 23rd, and 24th Reports of the Deputy Keeper.

These Deeds are arranged in two chronological series.

The first series (Nos. 1-467), extending from the year 1174 to 1684, consists of those which had been copied into the three volumes of the "Novum Registrum," compiled by Dr. Lyon and now in the custody of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church.

A few of the original Deeds in this series are wanting, but their contents have been supplied from the copies in the Novum Registrum. It is difficult to ascertain the exact dates of many, and the probable dates given by Dr. Lyon in the Novum Registrum have been adhered to, save where it is plain that a mistake has occurred.

Every Deed has received a current number in black type to which reference is made in this index; and, where a number enclosed in brackets follows, the second number will be found on the original Deed and on the copy in the Novum Registrum; thus in the case of 3 (2^b) the current reference number of the Deed is 3, but the number 2^b will be found on the original Deed and its copy in the Novum Registrum.

The second series (Nos. 468-1453), extending from the year 1177 to 1602, consists of Deeds which are not copied in the Novum Registrum, although similar in nature to those which have.

Instruments that are copies of original Deeds have been inserted according to the date on which the copies were made, and not according to the dates of the Deeds, save where the date of the copy is not given: with this exception the sequence of date is preserved.

The two series nearly cover a common period. With the exception of those noted in the Calendar as being in French or English they are all in Latin. They comprise papal bulls and ordinances, conveyances, royal grants, leases, licences of alienation, pardons, rentals, wills, and other documents relating to the ownership of land; grants of indulgences and ecclesiastical offices; pious and charitable foundations; pleadings in Chancery and other secular courts in civil matters, and pleadings, which include several papal commissions, in purely ecclesiastical matters; account rolls, municipal and parliamentary documents, and others of a miscellaneous nature.

On the back of an account roll was discovered an early English poem which is regarded as the earliest known Moral Play, or Morality, in the English language. It, together with the account roll, was published as the Annual Volume of the Royal Society of Antiquaries of Ireland for 1890-1, under the editorship of Mr. James Mills of this office. The play possesses considerable literary merit, vigorous style and dramatic power. It has been called the "Pride of Life," and Professor Morley in his seventh volume of "English Writers," published in 1891, gives a very interesting notice of it, and the value of its discovery to English literature. The Deeds of this collection of a later date than those printed have also been calendared in MS., but, as they consist entirely of leases of houses and lands belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, of a comparatively modern date, they have not been considered of sufficient importance to print.

An index of the names and places mentioned in the calendar, with the current numbers of the Deeds in which they occur, is now supplied. The modern forms are given where possible. The modern names of places are spelled as given in the Ordnance Survey, and are supplied where they can be identified with the archaic forms.

When, after the name of a place in the index, another is given within brackets, as (co. Dublin), the name within brackets is not in the original and is given in the index for more ready and complete identification.

DUBLIN CASTLE,

20th July, 1896.

SIR,

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 17th instant, forwarding, for submission to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, the Twenty-eighth Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records and Keeper of the State Papers in Ireland.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed)

D. HARREL.

The Deputy Keeper,

Public Record Office,

Four Courts.

THE TWENTY-EIGHTH REPORT
OF THE
DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS
AND KEEPER OF THE STATE PAPERS
IN IRELAND.

TO THE RIGHT HONORABLE EARL
CADOGAN, K.G.,

LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY.

1. Your Excellency, with the advice of the Privy Council, issued an Order in Council dated the 17th January, 1895, directing the Records of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace for the County of Westmeath, in accordance with the provisions of the 5th Section of the Public Records (Ireland) Act (1867), to be placed under the superintendence of the Master of the Rolls, and a schedule of such of them as have been transferred to this Department will be found at paragraph 85.

2. The attention of the Department has been called to the fact that a number of Crown Records, viz.:—Marriage Licence and other Bonds of the late Consistorial Court of the Diocese of Killaloe, were in possession of the Trustees of the British Museum, having been purchased by them on the 12th November, 1881. These Records must have been at one time or another unlawfully abstracted from the custody of the Registrar of the Diocese, as in a return of the Records of the Diocese made to the late Record Commissioner in 1811 by the Rev. Richard Martin, then Registrar of Killaloe and Kilfenora, though not expressly mentioned, they would appear to have been included. Warrants for the transfer of the Records of this Diocese have been issued by the Master of the Rolls. A letter was written to the Trustees pointing out that the custody of these Records, belonging as they do to the late Established Church of Ireland, is committed to the Master of the Rolls under the Public Records (Ireland) Act, 1867 (30 and 31 Vic., cap. 70), and that other Records of the Diocese of Killaloe, and of the other dioceses of the late Established Church, had been deposited here in pursuance of that Act, and asking what objection, if any, they would have to the transfer of these Records here. A reply was received that they did not propose to transfer to this Department the Records referred to. In addition to these Marriage Licence Bonds the Museum became possessed at the same time of two volumes of Consistory Court Papers of the same Diocese, including Citations, Sentences, Petitions, Inventories, &c., 1671-1824.

3. The Census returns of 1813, 1821, 1831-4, 1841, and 1851, are of Record here transferred at different times from their various places of original deposit. Their accessibility to the public has proved of incalculable value in enquiries concerning title and pedigree and the tracing of next-of-kin and heirs-at-law. This is a use of them for which they were not originally provided, but as often happens, the secondary use has proved of great importance and in quite a different direction to what the primary intention ever contemplated, and the present and future generations will find them increase in value as time goes on. It will be a loss in the future should the Census papers of 1881 and 1891 and the following years be destroyed, as the papers of 1861 and 1871 have been. Some arrangement might be come to by which they might be made available to the public, say twenty years after the making of them.

4. The books and documents of the Nonconformist French Huguenot Churches of Lucy-lane, Wood-street, and Peter-street, have been deposited here under the 16th section of the Public Records (Ireland) Act, by the Official Assignee of the Court of Bankruptcy, acting under an order of the judge, dated 29th November, 1895. They include Registers of Marriages, Baptisms, and Burials of the French Huguenot Church of Golblac-lane from 1701 to 1732 (Golblac-lane does not now appear amongst the Dublin streets, nor has a reference to it been found to indicate its locality, it is suggested that it was off Lucy-lane or was an alias for it), and of Burials from 1771 to 1887. The Registers of the Marriages and Baptisms between these latter dates are unaccounted for; but the following memorandum by the Pastor, in the existing Register explains the void from 1732 to 1771:—

“In the night between the 16th and 17th of January, 1771, some rogues broke open the Vestry room of the French Church, in Peter-street, in the city of Dublin, with an intent, as it is supposed, to steal the Communion Plate which they imagined was kept there, but being disappointed, they vented their rage upon some of the Church books which were then there and burnt the same. Among these books was unfortunately the Register of the Marriages, Christenings, and Burials belonging to that church and Lucy-lane which at that time formed but one congregation.

“Quod attestor,

J. SUBREMONT,
Minister of the French Church of Peter's-street.”

A schedule of the documents transferred will be found at paragraph 88.

State Paper Office.

5. There were no Papers or Indices received from the Chief Secretary's Office, during the past year.

6. The searches for Government numbered 237.

7. Copies of fifty-four Proclamations relating to Sessions Towns and Districts were prepared for the Editor of "Statutory Rules and Orders," by direction of Her Majesty's Treasury, and spare Copies of seventy-three Proclamations sent for his use.

8. Progress has been made with an Index, with brief summary of contents, of the Papers in cartons Nos. 620/15 to 620/23 covering the period 1780 to 1796. These form portion of the series referred to in the 9th Report of the Keeper of the State Papers as having been taken from "two large boxes."

9. The greater part of the Records transferred to the Public Record Office in the year 1895 was obtained from a large miscellaneous collection in the North recess of the lowest Record room of the Tower. They were tied up in some sixty large brown paper parcels, for the most part labelled "Statistical Survey" or "Population of Ireland." With the exception of three or four of the bundles, all were without arrangement. Vide par. 68.

10. This collection seems to have consisted of the general papers which remained in the office presses and drawers at the dissolution of the Record Commission. They included unarranged correspondence and uncompleted work of the Commission, and papers on a variety of subjects connected with the work, investigations, or employments carried on by the officers of the Commission.

11. William Shaw Mason, the Secretary of the Commission, had interested himself in many movements connected with schemes for the improvement of Ireland, and in collecting statistics which might throw light on its condition, and the means of ameliorating it. The papers connected with this work were found here.

12. Chief among his labours was his scheme for a "Statistical Survey or Parochial Account of Ireland" in 1813. The idea was suggested by the success of Sir John Sinclair's Survey of Scotland, which was based on returns obtained from the parish clergy throughout that country. Mr. Mason conceived the idea of bringing together a similar exhaustive account of Ireland, and in 1813 formed a small committee to carry out the scheme. He addressed repeated circulars to the clergy of the Established Church asking for their assistance, and furnishing them with sample surveys for their guidance in describing their own parishes.

It appears that descriptions of about 150 parishes were received in response to his appeals. Mr. Mason published three volumes of these Reports or Surveys in 1814, 1816, and 1819, respectively.

Some of these reports are of much interest and contain matter of great value for the local and social history of the country. No further volumes were published, although on examination and arrangement of the papers it appears that seventy-four unpublished memoirs remained in hands. Most of these are brief and contain little of value, but several are of considerable interest. These are now for the first time made available to students. The original papers relating to the published memoirs, too, occasionally contain matter not included in the printed survey; or furnish correspondence, consequent on the publication, which may prove of local interest.

13. The following is a list of the unpublished Reports:—

14. More or less intimately connected with the Parochial Survey, are a collection of Returns relative to the crops in 1816. The harvest in this year was deficient, and fears were entertained of a famine. In the absence of any official organisation capable of ascertaining the actual condition of the harvest, Mr. Mason conceived the idea of utilising his relations with the Clergy to procure local returns of the condition and produce of the crops throughout Ireland. The returns received, and abstracts of the results are now transferred.

15. Under an Act of 1812 (52 Geo. III., c. 133) Mr. Mason was authorised to take steps for the first official Census of Ireland in 1813. The practical difficulties in the way proved very considerable; and the machinery provided by the Act was quite inefficient. The execution of the Act locally was placed in the charge of the several Grand Juries, but as the Act did not make their action compulsory, the Grand Juries of some counties took no action at all. Grave doubts, too, were cast on the accuracy of many of the enumerators who being in some counties paid per head of population, were sometimes believed to have taken very little care to secure the accuracy of their figures.

16. Sect. 4 of the Act required that the original accounts of the proceedings of those making the formal returns should be deposited and preserved in the office of the Clerk of the Peace, or Town Clerk of the County or Town to which they belong. From these detailed accounts, returns were to be prepared in a specified form, verified by attestation before Justices of the Peace and forwarded to the Castle.

17. The original returns for one county—Wicklow—are now transferred, those of the other counties which made returns having been removed to the Record Office some years ago. The information is very meagre. The figures contained in the returns of some counties are also entered in a book. Some small volumes of abstracts contain summaries—Barony totals—of the other counties from which returns were received.

18. The incompleteness of these returns would have been of little moment, if the Clerks of the Peace had, as required by the Act, preserved the original enumeration accounts. Unfortunately among the Peace Office records as yet received in the Record Office, those from the County Dublin alone contain these detailed accounts.

19. One great difficulty in securing accurate information about the country was the absence of any general survey, or view of the topography of the country. This Mr. Mason endeavoured in some measure to obviate by obtaining from the county Treasurers, lists of the Parishes and Townlands in each Barony. These lists with the other papers connected with proceedings under the Population Act of 1812 have been removed to the Record Office.

20. While the official efforts to obtain an accurate record of the population produced such poor results, private effort had already shown what admirable results could be produced by earnestness and devotion. In 1798, the Rev. James Whitelaw, taking advantage of the inquiries made in connexion with the regulations for the police check on the population of the city of Dublin, made a careful and almost exhaustive census of the city. His work is fully described in Whitelaw and Walsh's History of Dublin, App. pp. v. and vi. A manuscript copy of this census and survey of the city has been found in the Tower. It is bound in two large folio volumes. Having no lettering or heading describing it, its origin had been forgotten. It has now been identified and transferred to Record Office. Each street is given in detail, the occupier or proprietor of each house, with the numbers of male and female inhabitants of the upper classes, servants, and lower classes respectively. The houses are given in their order, and as all intersecting streets and lanes are carefully indicated, the houses can in most cases be identified with certainty.

21. Mr. Mason was anxious to add in several ways to the meagre information obtained by the census. Among others, he conceived the idea of obtaining some data as to the relative numbers of the principal religious bodies. His relations with the clergy, formed not only through his efforts towards the Parochial Survey, but also in his capacity of Secretary to the Board of First Fruits, led him to apply to the clergy of the Established Church for such information as they could give. He applied to the Presbyterian clergy for statistics of their congregations, and appears to have taken some preliminary steps towards addressing the clergy of the Roman Catholic Church. A large number of returns were obtained from the clergy of the Established and Presbyterian Churches. They contain only the supposed numbers of families of each principal religion, and the estimated numbers of individuals based on an assumed average number of a family. These returns with some books of abstracts have been transferred.

22. Mr. Mason was not satisfied with the imperfect results of these early statistical efforts, and in 1819, with the assistance of some friends, prepared a model Statistical Survey and Census of the Barony of Portnahinch, Queen's County. This contains practically all the information contained in the more recent censuses, with the addition of what is supplied by the modern Agricultural Returns. This work was successfully completed, and a copy presented to King George IV. on his visit in 1821. The papers connected with this work have now been arranged and transferred.

23. The failure of the attempt to secure a complete Census of Ireland under the Act of 1812, were soon obvious; and an Act was passed so early as 1815 (55 Geo. III., c. 120), giving directions for the taking anew of a Census, and providing more effectual machinery for giving it effect.

24. The agents in the new machinery were the Chairman and Bench of Magistrates of each county. Though no actual steps towards taking the Census were made until 1821, measures were at once set on foot to place the Central Organization under Mr. Mason in communication with the county magistrates. Lists of these were accordingly asked for and revised from time to time until 1821.

25. At the beginning of the year 1821, Special Sessions were held in each county as provided by the Act of 1815, at which enumerators were appointed for every parish in Ireland. To test the capacity of these enumerators, Mr. Mason required them to make preliminary returns. These give the names of the parishes in each enumerator's district, and the names and addresses of the clergy of every denomination and of the school-masters resident in the district. These returns and the subsequent correspondence with enumerators and county authorities form a considerable collection which have now been removed. The enumerators' final returns, which specify, under parishes, and townlands or streets, the names and age of each person, were copied into books under the supervision of the Clerks of the Peace, and returned to the Tower, whence, in 1869, they were transferred to the Record Office. When received in the Tower, the books were placed in the hands of a staff of clerks who abstracted and tabulated the results. The papers connected with this work are now removed.

26. To aid apparently in identification of names, Mr. Mason obtained copies of the printed Freeholders' Lists prepared from time to time by the Clerks of the Peace of the several counties. These have been arranged and transferred.

27. A private Act (5 George IV., c. cxviii.), provided for the Valuation of Houses in Dublin, and the more equal payment of Local Taxes. In 1826 a Commission issued for the Valuation of the houses in the city. The papers of this Commission have now been removed to Record Office. They comprise schedules of all houses, in each street, with preliminary and final valuation; appeals against the amount of individual valuation arranged in streets; the streets arranged alphabetically; some special classes of appeals, as those in cases of breweries and distilleries; and letters.

28. The following papers belonging to the Privy Council or classed with the Council papers in the Catalogue published by the Record Commissioners have also been arranged and transferred to Record Office.

29. Draft Letters transmitting Bills, 1735-1800. (Record Commissioners Reports, vol. II., p. 244). These are the original drafts of letters which the Irish Council sent to the English Privy Council, recommending the approval of the Parliamentary Bills which were to be returned as transmisses to be read and passed by the Irish Parliament. The letters state the object of the Bill, the circumstances of its introduction or preparation, and the reasons for its adoption.

30. Abstracts of business done in Council, 1773-81. Brief notes of matters brought before the Privy Council, and how they were disposed of.

31. Accounts of the Ballast Office, 1713-83. (Rec. Com. Rep., II., p. 229.)

32. Accounts of Printing and Stationery, 1702-93. (Rec. Com. Rep. II., p. 229.) Accounts for printing work, stationery goods, and newspapers supplied to the Lord Lieutenant, Privy Council, Chief Secretary's Office, and Parliament.

33. Accounts of State Messengers, 1711-94. (Rec. Com. Rep., vol. II., p. 229.) Accounts of mileage charges on Government messages.

34. Accounts of Tradesmen, 1724-95. (Rec. Com. Rep. II., p. 229.) Accounts of articles supplied to Chief Governors, Chief Secretary, and Parliament House. Some papers of more general interest have been taken from the bundles for insertion in the general papers.

35. Forms of Prayer, 1778-1803. Printed forms of church services for use on days set apart for Prayer or Thanksgiving on certain special occasions.

36. Union of Parishes, &c., 1807-20. A number of papers connected with Orders in Council for the Union of Parishes, changes of site of Churches, and the like, were found among miscellaneous papers. They have been arranged and transferred, for insertion in the collection and Index of such papers as are already in the Record Office.

37. Among the papers of the Chief Secretary's Office transferred were 14 bundles of Lord Lieutenant's Warrants for appointments to Archbishoprics, Bishoprics, and Deaneries, and for presentation to Church livings. The Warrants are entered in the Warrant Books. They are preliminary to the issue of letters patent, which are entered in the Patent Rolls.

38. Wool Export Licenses, 1697-1780.—Twenty-seven volumes of brief entries of licenses issued to permit the export of wool from Ireland.

39. Inventions, 1833-45. Three volumes, entries of King's Letters and Lord Lieutenant's Warrants for the issue of Patents for Inventions.

40. The remaining books transferred include some volumes of Tithe Claims under 3 & 4 W. IV., &c., Return of Fairs and Markets, 1845, Minutes of the Synod of Ulster, 1790-1820, List of Undisposed and Plus Lands, List of Lands forfeited in 1688, &c.

41. The books removed connected with the Convict Department, referring to the transport of convicts from Ireland, include:—

Lists of Convicts transported, 1793 to 1842.

Names of Convicts transported, 1817-36. Original returns of the convicts who sailed in each convict ship, giving name, county, date of committal and trial, crime, sentence, with some details for identification, as age, height, colour of eyes, hair, and complexion.

Convict Returns, 1832-6. Duplicates of the preceding, with some occasional differences of detail.

Convict Ships, 1817-1845. One volume; contains names of ships sailing with convicts, with names of officers, number of convicts, dates of sailing and arrival, and brief notes of voyage.

Free Settlers' Books, 1823-41. Entries as to wives and children of transported convicts whom it was proposed to send out at the public expense, with names and some particulars as to each case.

Yeomanry Office.

42. Commission Books, 1796-1834.

Letter Books, 1796-1821. For the most part belonging to series already in part transferred.

For detailed schedule of above see paragraph 63.

Sorting and Arrangement of Records.

90. The re-arrangement of the Chancery Bills have been steadily proceeded with and completed for the period from 1582 to 1800, making 14,287 fasciculi, which have been arranged in 2,041 bundles covered with brown paper. The series of Bills and Answers of the Palatinate Court of Tipperary, 1691-1715, containing 189 fasciculi, have been arranged in twenty-seven bundles. Progress has also been made with the Chancery Answers, working backward from 1867, and the Answers from 1820 to 1867 have been arranged and turned from 5,698 into 814 covered bundles. The experience of the change up to date has been most satisfactory, the documents being much more accessible, and kept absolutely free from dust and practically from decay.

In addition to the above, fees on copies made for Public Departments have been remitted to the amount of £60 9s. 0d.

113. I have to acknowledge the following donations:—Twelve volumes of Record Publications by the Right Honorable the Master of the Rolls in England; two volumes by the Keeper of the Records of Scotland; and the French Bible of the French Church of Peter-street, Dublin, by Isaac M. D'Olier, esq.

114. Numerous searches have been made under literary certificates in connexion with matters of Family History and of historical and antiquarian research.

Amongst the subjects investigated were:—The History of the parishes of Hollywood, Kill, Newport, Taney, and Whitechurch; also the Military History of the 8th Hussars, the Cork Militia, and the Enniskilling Regiment.

Dated at the Public Record Office,
Four Courts, Dublin, this Second day of May, 1896.

J. J. DIGGES LA TOUCHE,

Deputy Keeper of the Public Records and Keeper of the State Papers in Ireland.

I humbly certify to your Excellency that this Report is made by the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records and Keeper of the State Papers in Ireland, under my direction, pursuant to the Statute.

A. M. PORTER,

Master of the Rolls.

APPENDIX I.

EARLY ROLLS OF JUDICIAL PROCEEDINGS.

The examination of the earlier rolls of Judicial Proceedings (26th Report, p. 54) has been completed.

The principal collection is that of the Plea Rolls removed from the Record Tower. A catalogue of these was published by the Record Commissioners in the Supplement to their 8th Report (1819), pp. 79-125. This catalogue describes 514 "Plea Rolls," 79 "Miscellaneous Plea Rolls," and 40 "Fragments of Plea Rolls." There was no very obvious reason for making a distinction between the two former classes; while the "Fragments of Plea Rolls" are often less fragmentary than some of the "Plea Rolls."

The rolls catalogued by the Record Commission in 1819 were unhappily not all forthcoming when they came to be transferred to the Record Office in 1869. At the latter date the following rolls included by the Record Commissioners in 1819 had disappeared: Plea Rolls Nos. 11, 12, 155, 162, 244, 245, 248, 250, 252, 286, 349, 350, 362, 373, 375, 380; Miscellaneous Plea Rolls 14; Fragments of Plea Rolls 7, 8, 12, 17, 19, 21.

As to the fate of these missing rolls only one clue has been found here. Among the Plea Roll collection is a small parcel labelled "Rolls purchased at Ferguson's sale, 1857," referring to the late antiquary and record expert Mr. James Ferguson. This bundle contained a few membranes of parchment, chiefly skins and portions of skins of Plea Rolls. On examination, 12 of these skins were found to belong to one of the missing rolls, and one skin to another of them. These skins have been restored to their places in the collection as No. 162 (Justiciary Roll, 4° Ed. III.), and No. 11 (Banco Roll, 18 Ed. I.). The roll to which the 12 skins belong, contained when catalogued by the Record Commissioners 29 skins. They evidently came into James Ferguson's hands as detached skins, for a list of them in his handwriting, and found with them, implies that he was unaware that they belonged to the same roll. This fact, with the presence among them of an isolated skin of another roll, makes it probable that the missing rolls, or some of them, have been broken up.

Some of the entries in the Catalogue of the Record Commissioners do not represent what can properly be called Rolls. No. 124 has no existence. It is merely a re-entry of No. 114. No. 333 is not a distinct roll but only the last skin of No. 332. Several are only mixed skins of different rolls. Such are those numbered as Miscellaneous Plea Rolls Nos. 33, 55, 73, 74, 75. Others had one or more detached skins of other rolls put up with them as Nos. 165, 212, Misc. P. R., 18. Some of the so-called rolls are simply bundles of Pleadings or Writs.

A few are rolls of the Exchequer. They are Nos. 20, 70, 389, 452, 454, 460, Misc. P. R. 76.

The Fragments of Plea Rolls were found in many cases to be portions of existing rolls. These have been restored to their places. Those fragments which belong to rolls of which no more is preserved, are separately referred to in the annexed catalogue.

Detached skins and fragments have been identified and replaced with the following rolls:—Plea Rolls Nos. 3, 19, 36, 54, 59, 60, 65, 77, 140, 152, 165, 196, 198, 200, 206, 220, 267, 273, 288, 317, 347, 355, 408, 465, 480, 489, 490, 497, 500, 505, 512; Misc. Plea Rolls 17, 20, 22, 24, 25, 30, 34, 37, 38, 42, 44, 46, 50, 57, 61, 68.

The only important find not connected with the Plea Roll system was the old wrapper of Misc. P. R. No. 69, which was found to be an original Inquisition post mortem of 16° Richard II., taken on the death of John fitz Milo le Courcy. This has been put up as number 1 of the Chancery Inquisitions, Co. Cork. It is the earliest original inquisition preserved here.

In completing the examination of the more scattered and fragmentary portion of the collection, several portions of early rolls were met with which should have been included among the rolls catalogued in the 26th Report.

These supplementary fragments are as follow :—

The following catalogue has been framed as a continuation of the List printed in the Appendix to the 26th Report.

Section I. carries on the Justiciary Rolls to 18° Richard II., when that king first visited Ireland. Until this time the heading of the rolls of proceedings of the Chief Bench ran in the form "Coram A. B. Justiciario Hiberniæ." In the presence of the king this form naturally gave way to "Coram Rege," as on the rolls of the King's Court in England. This form, once introduced, was, in accordance with the English practice, continued permanently in Ireland after the king's departure. For the remaining rolls therefore the name Coram Rege has been adopted as in England. As before, the rolls of the Court were still kept in two divisions, I (a.) containing the general Placita, chiefly civil suits, and I (b.) the Placita Coronæ or Crown Rolls—the entries of criminal proceedings, or of those affecting the King's Peace, and his rights.

Besides these two principal divisions of rolls are some minor classes: Recognizance Rolls from 26° Hen. VI.; Rolls of Attorney from 23° Elizabeth; and some miscellaneous rolls and files, chiefly for the reign of Elizabeth.

APPENDIX II.

TABLE of the PAROCHIAL RECORDS of IRELAND, distinguishing the several Parishes, &c., the Records of which are deposited at the Public Record Office, Four Courts, Dublin, from those the Records of which are in the Local Custodies, corrected to 1st May, 1896, viz. :—

Records in the Public Record Office: Egyptian Type—Abbeysfeale.

Records in the Local Custody, { Under Retention Order, *Abington.
Unattached, Abbeystrewry.

NOTE.—The dates of the Records not in the Public Record Office have been taken from Inventories returned by the Parochial Officers, chiefly in 1875-6; and it has been presumed that the entry of Marriages in the ordinary Registers ceased on the coming into operation of the Act 7 & 8 Vict., c. 81, unless the contrary is stated in the Inventory.

DUBLIN CASTLE,

17th July, 1897.

SIR,

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 16th instant, forwarding, for submission to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, the Twenty-ninth Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records and Keeper of the State Papers in Ireland.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed)

D. HARREL.

The Deputy Keeper of the Records,

Four Courts,

Dublin.

THE TWENTY-NINTH REPORT
OF THE
DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS
AND KEEPER OF THE STATE PAPERS
IN IRELAND.

TO THE RIGHT HONORABLE EARL
CADOGAN, K.G.,

LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY.

1. In accordance with the provisions of the 5th section of the Public Records (Ireland) Act, 1867, your Excellency made an Order in Council, dated 2nd March, 1896, directing the Records of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace for the county of Monaghan to be placed under the superintendence of the Master of the Rolls. In pursuance thereof these Records to the year 1876 have been transferred to this Department, but their arrangement and classification have not proceeded sufficiently far to enable a schedule of them to be given in this report. This county is the twenty-fourth of the thirty-two counties of Ireland, the Records of which have been placed under the superintendence of the Master of the Rolls.

2. In my 27th Report (paragraph 4), it was stated that "a fire, which took place in Roscommon in the year 1882, destroyed practically all the Records of that county prior to that date." Since then the Clerk of the Crown and Peace by careful search has been enabled to recover certain fragmentary classes of Records, the details of which are scheduled in paragraph 65.

3. The question of the organisation and remuneration of the officers of this department has been under the consideration of the Lords Commissioners of H. M. Treasury, and an arrangement has been come to by which their pay and prospects will be somewhat improved by the raising of the initial salary, an increase in the amount of the annual increment, and the abolition of the disinction between Senior and Junior Clerks. The new scheme came into operation on the 1st April, 1897.

4. Mr. T. D. James has been transferred to the Admiralty, and Mr. S. C. Ratcliff has been appointed in his place.

5. As there seems to be a general though mistaken impression that there is a large class of documents written in the Irish language amongst the Records in the custody of this department, it has been thought advisable to give in the appendix a copy, and translation, of the few (5) records written in Irish that have up to the present been found. They have been transcribed and rendered into English by Mr. M. J. McEnery of this office, and comprise :—

(a.) An Award or Decree of Arbitrators under the Brehon Law between two parties of O'Kennedys of the barony of Lower Ormond, county Tipperary, dated 8th October, 1584. In a paper read before the Royal Irish Academy by the late James Henthorn Todd, D.D., on the 8th February, 1858, "On some Irish Deeds," it is referred to as No. 15, and there is a copy and translation of it in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, made by the late Eugene O'Curry. Though not mentioned by name it was included amongst the miscellaneous Records preserved in the Rolls Office, Chancery (vide p. 518, Supplement to Eighth Report (1819) of the late Record Commission for Ireland).

(b.) Three deeds relating to a mortgage between O'Dowlings, and Walshes of the lands of Tully in the King's county, dated respectively the Saturday after Michaelmas (30 Sep.), 1570; the 29th June, 1594; and the 23rd June, 1595. They are included in the Usher's Box Collection of the Court of Chancery.

(c.) A will of Edmund Grace of Walterstown, co. Carlow, dated 20th December, 1606, proved first in the diocese of Leighlin and afterwards, in 1609, in the Prerogative Court, amongst which collection it is now of record. A copy and translation of this Will are to be found in the 15th volume of the Transactions of the Royal Irish Academy, in a paper read on the 27th February, 1826, by the late James Hardiman, and is numbered there as No. 36 of a series of Irish documents.

6. Attention has been lately directed to the exceptionally beautiful and artistic binding of the Lords and Commons Journals of Ireland from 1634 to 1800. An American expert in leather work stated that he had seen no such series of bindings in England or on the continent; and Sir Edward Sullivan, bart., in a lecture on Bookbinding, delivered in January last in the Royal University Buildings on behalf of the Arts and Crafts Society of Ireland, made the following statement with regard to these volumes.

"The Bradley family, who held the office of King's Stationers for a considerable portion of the 18th century had undoubtedly some very skilful workmen in their employment during that period. It was in their establishment, in all probability, that a very superb set of bindings was executed, a selection from which I am able to show you from photographs, which were kindly permitted to be taken by the Public Record Office. They form the coverings of the Journals of the old Houses of Lords and Commons in Ireland. They are generally bound in red Morocco, folio size, and a few of them are inlaid."

7. On the engrossment of the Index to the Marriage Licence Bonds of the diocese of Cork and Ross from 1623 to 1750 being completed and placed in the Search Room for the use of the public, application was made on behalf of the Cork Historical and Archaeological Society to be allowed the use of the draft Index with permission to print it in the Journal of the Society. The application was favourably entertained by the Master of the Rolls, and the required permission given.

8. R. S. Longworth Dames, esq., has very handsomely handed over to the Department sundry Records from the Registry of the diocese of Kildare, which were purchased at a sale, and they have been deposited here as Records under the 16th section of the Public Records (Ireland) Act. They comprise a Roll of Procurations of the Bishop of Kildare for the Deaneries of Kildare, Naas, Clane, and Killighy, with a list of Bishops to 1744, and nine rolls of Oaths and abjurations between 1687-1764. (See paragraph 71).

State Paper Office.

9. In March there were received from the Chief Secretary's Office the Papers of the year 1886 in 69 carton boxes; and the Index and Register for 1884, in four large volumes. The papers have been examined, checked, and put up in 63 cartons, numbered 3,202 to 3,264.

10. In April a considerable quantity of misplaced papers of the Chief Secretary's Office and Council Office were received. The identification and replacing of these has occupied much time.

11. The Searches made for Government during the year 1896 amounted to 213.

12. Mr. C. Litton Falkiner having obtained the permission of the Chief Secretary to consult for historical purposes the papers of the 1798 period, attended on several days and examined a number of papers of that time.

13. The papers of the former Yeomanry office have been collected, sorted, arranged, flattened, and made up in brown paper parcels for transfer.

14. In 1893 the arrangement of the papers of the former Military department of the Chief Secretary's Office was undertaken, and was completed so far as related to those papers, which were preserved in a form which readily admitted of their being arranged in series. A very large number remained to a great extent without any arrangement. These have also during the past year been classified, arranged, and prepared for transfer.

15. The papers thus dealt with complete the collection of letters and papers of the Military Department of the Chief Secretary's Office while it continued a distinct department. Its books had already been transferred to the Record Office. It should be remembered, however, that these books and papers are not the records of the army itself, but only such documents relating to the army as passed through the Military Department of the Chief Secretary's Office, and of which it was necessary that the Lord Lieutenant and the Government should take cognisance.

16. In the Lord Lieutenant was formerly vested a large degree of control over the army, his relation to the military authorities resembling that of the War Office to the "Horse Guards" in London. Though the regiments forming the Irish establishment were sent here or withdrawn by the Commander-in-Chief in London, they remained, while in Ireland, under the orders and control of the Irish Government. All questions of military discipline naturally came before the Commander of the Forces in Ireland, who, where necessary, submitted them to the Lord Lieutenant, but ultimately (especially since the Union) dealt with the matter in his own office. Similarly, matters of military detail, though the subject of correspondence with, or returns to, Government, were dealt with in the offices of the Adjutant-General, Muster-Master-General, or such other officer, with whom the records of the proceedings remained. It came in theory to be considered that questions affecting matters of Finance only properly belonged to the Chief Secretary's Military Department. Still the number of cases which directly or indirectly involved questions of expenditure or affected the pay or allowances of officers or men, formed a very large proportion of the business to be dealt with by the army offices, and produced the voluminous correspondence and numerous returns to the Government which make up this collection.

17. The duties of the Chief Secretary as to military affairs were so important and onerous that by 1777 an Under Secretary for Military Business had been appointed, with a separate staff of clerks. This Under Secretary was frequently, even officially, referred to as the Secretary at War, and his office as the War Office, Dublin. The legislative union did not practically diminish the executive authority of the Irish Government; on the contrary, its functions as regards the army were in some respects increased, a much enlarged staff became necessary in the Irish "War Office," and the records preserved are vastly more numerous for the years succeeding the Union.

18. In 1817 some steps were taken towards diminishing the duties of this office and centralising the army control in London, and a very much greater advance in this direction was made in 1822. In the meantime, in 1819, the office of Under Secretary for Military Affairs was abolished. In 1831, on the retirement of Edward Connor, who for nearly thirty years had been its able and laborious chief clerk, the separate Military Department was discontinued, and the remaining clerks included in the general staff of the Chief Secretary's Office. The books and papers for military affairs continued, however, to be kept separately until 1835.

19. The books of the Military Department were transferred to the Record Office some years ago, and have already been much consulted by students of Military history, but the original letters and papers remained inaccessible since the extinction of the office. They formed a portion of the contents of the "74 huge wooden boxes" mentioned in Sir Bernard Burke's report for 1882, which had been stored in one of the rooms of the Record Tower "in such a manner as to be quite inaccessible for the purpose of reference." 15th Rep
p. 182.

20. Under the direction of the Under Secretary for Military Affairs, a separately organised office was formed in 1797 for the management of the business connected with the large number of Yeomanry Corps then formed through the country. The letters and papers of this Office are those which are mentioned above as having been prepared for transfer. They relate not only to the Yeomanry force at large but to the correspondence with the various corps through the country. These are arranged in counties.

21. Three bundles of papers endorsed "Betham MSS." have been examined and arranged. The papers of a public character have been included in the transfer to Record Office. These include papers belonging to the Irish Record Commissioners, chiefly copies of Inquisitions and papers relating to Irish statutes; extracts and copies of various documents, antiquarian and literary compositions and notes, including Sir W. Betham's MS. of "Irish Antiquarian Researches," Part 2.

22. Three bundles endorsed "Ferguson MSS." have also been examined. They contain notes and memoranda chiefly genealogical, often very fragmentary, from the Exchequer and other records by James F. Ferguson, with some papers of Lynch.

23. The earlier papers still remaining in the Tower being much scattered and inaccessible, those before 1760 have been gathered into one chronological series. The basis of this collection consists of the papers mentioned in Sir Bernard Burke's 13th report as found during the alteration of the old presses to make way for the present carton box shelving. To these have been added: i. The small class called "Irish Departmental Correspondence" to 1759; ii. The occasional papers to this date among the collection of "Miscellaneous State Papers" referred to in the "Official Index"; iii. Papers for same period from "Miscellaneous State Papers not entered in Official Index"; and ii. Scattered documents found during arrangement of the papers. The collection thus formed occupies thirteen carton boxes. It is proposed to prepare a draft index, and when transferred to the Record Office to supplement the collection and index by adding several small collections of State papers relating to the same period and not yet indexed. 13th Rep.,
p. 14.
5th Rep.,
p. 31.

24. The transfer to the Public Record Office in December included the Military papers referred to as detailed in paragraph 14; the Yeomanry Office papers; papers from the Betham MSS.; the Ferguson MSS.; and a parcel of appointments of guardians of minors in Chancery for 1807. For Schedule of above, see paragraph 46.

Sorting and Arrangement of Records.

73. The re-arrangement of the Chancery Answers has been steadily proceeded with from the 26th June, 1771, to the year 1820, comprising 11,547 fasciculi arranged in 1,301 brown paper parcels.

74. One hundred parcels of Records of the Clerks of the Crown and Peace for co. Londonderry; ninety-six of co. Armagh; twenty of co. Limerick; one hundred and twenty-seven of co. Longford; three hundred and twenty-nine of co. Louth; two hundred and six of co. Mayo; one hundred and thirty-six of co. Roscommon; and one hundred and three of the Queen's county have been stamped.

75. One thousand and seventy-one Bankruptcy files in portfolios have been cleaned, newly corded, and labelled; and three thousand two hundred and eighty-one portfolios have had their contents stamped.

76. One hundred and thirty-four parcels of See Leases and Building Papers belonging to the Dioceses of Cashel, Clogher, Clonfert, Cloyne, Cork and Ross, Down and Connor, Dromore, Ferns, Kildare, Killala, Kilmore, Limerick, Meath, and Ossory have been folded to one uniform size and covered.

77. One hundred and ninety portfolios of Parochial Returns have had their contents numbered.

78. Seven thousand and seventy-eight parcels of Records have been cleaned, covered with brown paper, and relabelled.

79. Two hundred and eighty-three Wills and fourteen Miscellaneous Documents have been repaired, and one hundred and two Marriage Licence Bonds of the Diocese of Dublin, and three thousand and eighty-two of the Diocese of Cork and Ross have been sized and repaired. One hundred and ninety-three volumes of books have been bound.

Indexing and Calendaring.

80. The Index has been completed to the Armagh Diocesan Grant and Marriage Licence Book, 1810-1826; to the Derry Diocesan Register, 1682-1856; to the Clogher Marriage Licence Book, 1830-1840; and to the Leighlin Grant Book, 1833-1856.

81. Indexes have been completed to the Marriage Licence Bonds of the Dioceses of Cloyne, 1630-1800; Cork and Ross, 1623-1750; and Waterford and Lismore, 1762-1848.

82. The checking of the Draft Index to the Grants of the Diocese of Dublin, 1800-1858, has been completed, and it is now ready to be engrossed. It is not at present proposed to print this portion of the Index, although it is a continuation of the portion (1270-1800) printed as an Appendix to my 26th Report.

Proceedings under the Parochial Records Acts, 38 & 39 Vict., c. 59, and 39 & 40 Vict., c. 58.

83. The Annual Reports of Parochial Officers having custody of Records under Retention Orders were all duly received. In three parishes the Records were reported to be more or less affected by damp, and the usual measures which have proved beneficial in many cases were recommended to be adopted.

84. The Retention Orders which had been issued up to the commencement of the present year number 564.

85. Registers of the following parishes were rebound at the request of the parochial custodians :—

Aghade.
Creagh (Gloucest diocese).
Delvin.
Hillsborough.

Raphoe.
Rathkeale.
Rathvilly.
Stradbally.

86 The Records of the following Parishes which became attachable during the year 1896 have been removed to this Department.

In addition to the above, fees on copies made for Public Departments have been remitted to the amount of £41 19s. 0d.

91. I have to acknowledge the following donations:—Four volumes of Record Publications by the Right Honourable the Master of the Rolls in England; two volumes by the Keeper of the Records of Scotland; and a volume entitled “Gleanings from the Patent Laws of all Countries, Part I,” by the author, W. Lloyd Wise, esq., F.R.G.S.

92. A very large number of searches have been made during the past year in connexion with matters of historical and antiquarian interest. Amongst the subjects investigated I may mention the History of the parishes of Stillorgan, Kill and Monkstown, of the Abbey of Monasternagallaghdu and of Inchiquin Castle; the “New England” Settlers, S. Mary’s Cathedral, Limerick, the 29th Regiment of Foot, the Battle Axe Guards, the Rebellion of 1798, and the Life of Francis Hutcheson.

Dated at the Public Record Office,
Four Courts, Dublin, this Four-

I.

The cause for this writing is to show how the dispute was settled that was between the descendants of James na-bhFiadh O'Kennedy of Baile-locha-capuill (now Ballycapple and Ballycapple Wood, parish of Modreeny, co. Tipperary). These are those descendants namely Teige Maol, son of Mahon, son of Donnchuan, son of James na-bhFiadh, and Philip, son of Donnchuan, son of James na-bhFiadh, with his two sons namely Hugh and Dermot:—they are on the one side, for each other. Here are the other persons that were in dispute with them, on the other side, namely the children of Brian, son of Conor, son of Owen, son of James na-bhFiadh, that is John and Conor and Daniel and Henry who were present at this reconciliation, and they went surety for their kinsmen who were not present.

This is the dispute that arose between them namely the children of Brian son of Conor having claimed a division of the land from the descendants of Donnchuan son of James na-bhFiadh in Baile-locha-capuill, these descendants of Donnchuan replied that they would not give a division to them, that their fathers made a division long ago, and that they made a perpetual division with each other at the time. The children of Brian son of Conor denied this, said that their father before them and themselves after him were claiming a division of the land at Baile-locha-capuill, and, especially, that their grandfather was settled on his own share at Baile-locha-capuill.

And whereas the descendants of Donnchuan asserted that a perpetual division had been made before that time, it was awarded that they should prove it against the children of Brian son of Conor. This is the first proof the descendants of Donnchuan gave thereon, in presence of umpires, namely to say that themselves had the possession sixty or eighty years:—the second proof, namely the will of Mahon son of Donnchuan, in presence of witnesses and the priest of the parish, that the perpetual division had been made:—the third proof, namely the evidence of Finola daughter of Murrough Smith who lives this day and has been for sixty years at Baile locha-capuill:—the fourth proof, namely (the evidence of) Philip, son of Donnchuan, son of James na-bhFiadh, who is up to eighty years:—the fifth proof, namely (the evidence of) Denis O'Derbreo who was an honest husbandman and an impartial clerk:—and not alone these but themselves thought they had every proof.

John, son of Brian, opposed these testimonies in this way. The first article of them, namely saying that they had possession for eighty years:—he said he was not in a worse position through that since it came to them through seniority. The second article:—he says, concerning the will of Mahon son of Donnchuan, if he made it, as he did not make it, that failing memory and the affliction of his sickness would have caused him to say it; that his own father Brian, son of Conor, was present at the will of Mahon and told him not to say that a perpetual division had been made, and that Brian himself left by will, at the time of his death, that the perpetual division had never been made. point, to say that Philip son of Donnchuan made evidence against him :—he says that Philip son of Donnchuan contending for himself and his children is not a (proper) witness and “you know if he said anything else.” The fourth article, it was told him it had been stated that Finola daughter of Murrough Smith made evidence against him :—he says she did not make it and if she did make it that himself was not in a worse position through that namely she contending for her children and kindred after her. As for Denis O'Derbreo he had not heard that he had done anything to injure him and if he had done so it was easy for him to quash it.

And since none of the proofs there recited were good proofs he established by good witnesses, as himself thought, that Conor son of Owen was settled on his own share of the division at Baile-locha-capuill namely in the Garbh-chulog; and here are the witnesses thereto namely Margaret daughter of Denis O'Carroll and Sabia ni Cugan and Dermot Smith.

And, notwithstanding every contest and dispute which they made, they submitted to the arbitration of four persons and these are the four to whom they submitted namely O'Kennedy Finn, that is Brian son of Daniel of Lackeen (now in Abbeyville, parish of Lorrha, co. Tipperary) and Mulrony, son of Calvagh, son of Denis, son of little John O'Carroll of Cluain-Leisg (now Clonlisk, King's county) and William, son of Dermot son of Hugh, son of Rory O'Kennedy, of the same place, and Carbery, son of Cosnamhach, son of Daniel, son of Giolla-na-naomh Mac Egan and they examined the case between them and the proofs on every side e.g. the will of Mahon son of Donnchuan as the first part of the proofs; and according to their own judgment they gathered from it thus, that, if a perpetual division of the land had been made, the castle or bawn had no share in it but were to belong to the senior of the descendants of James na-bhFiadh.

Taking into account everything these people said, and according to every hearsay and evidence which they got, they agreed with each other, and 'tis thus they agreed, that a perpetual division should be set down in writing for fear of oblivion, and for this reason, that writing is better than memory as it is said “meamoria vadid litera cosdodid,” that is, writing lives, memory departs.

On this account they directed them to make an honest, equal, brotherly division with each other according to the custom of their ancestors; and, according to their own judgment, they awarded that anything that was said or done on the land, up to this time, was not a perpetual division. And it is thus they awarded, (namely) the castle and bawn of Baile-locha-capuill to the eldest and chief man of the descendants of James na-bhFiadh, and it is thus they arranged it, namely the castle and little bawn to the senior and the great bawn too, but in this way, that each kinsman who shall be contributing in the place to erect buildings on it shall have the proportion of his own share: and, those who shall not erect buildings, it will be left to the senior to act by them according to his own convenience.

They left to the senior from every (such) builder half a folded sheep and a goat in addition, and the increase entirely; and every kinsman who shall be contributing his share to the place and shall absent himself from it, his share of every expense that shall come on the place was left on him unless the senior himself is blameable for it.

They left six cows, free, to the senior or half stock at his own choice; and they left the senior a day's work, every quarter of a year, from every contributor that should be in the bawn, besides his own people. And further whosoever of the kinsmen should give impudence insult or scandal to the senior or his wife that he be dealt with as the law shall decide between them; and furthermore whosoever of the kinsmen shall desire to give his share of the division to a relative during his own life time, the umpires left that to his own decision, but he has no power to alienate it outside the family.

And it is thus I found in the writing before me that it was on the eighth day of the month of October this was first written and this was then the age of the Lord, namely 1584.

This is the evidence of Denis O'Harty and John O'Callanan concerning the will of William son of Dermot O'Kennedy, at the time of his death, namely that Carbery MacEgan, and O'Kennedy Finn, that is Brian, son of Daniel O'Kennedy of Leacaein, and Mulrony, son of Calvagh O'Carroll awarded the castle and bawn of Bali-locha-capail to the senior of the posterity of James na-bhFiadh, and that himself got a pound as umpire's fees.

In the name of God amen. The cause of this writing is to show the agreement of Honora daughter of Mageoghegan and her children, namely the children of Nicholas Walsh with the children of Daniel O'Dowling (affecting) a cartron and a-half of land, except one acre short, in Tully, (parishes of Ardnurcher and Kilmanaghan, King's county); and this is the consideration for this mortgage, viz. seventeen cows and nine pigs, or three cows instead of the pigs, at the option of the children of Daniel. The term is to be five years without redemption, and the children of Daniel are to have power of redemption from that out; and notice of the redemption is to be given at May day. The first portion of the redemption is to be given after Lammas day, viz. seven cows; and the second portion after Michaelmas day, viz. ten cows and nine pigs:—and these portions of the redemption are to be share and share between Honora and the children she bore to Nicholas Walsh. These are the witnesses of the agreement viz. Con Mageoghegan and Murtough O'King, the person who wrote this agreement, and Carbery O'King, and the children of Thomas O'Coffey, that is Hugh and Dermot; and this was the age of the

Be it known to every man that I Lewis son of Turlough O'Dowling of Killcoirill (now Kilcurley) in the King's county, have given and by this deed confirmed from me and my heirs after me, to Richard Walsh of Dubh-choill (now Newtown, parish of Kilcumreragh), in the same county and his heirs after him, my own share of Tully (vide II. supra); namely the share of Tully aforesaid which my father, that is Turlough son of Daniel O'Dowling, gave in mortgage to Nicholas Walsh and his son, namely Richard. This share is to be from me subject to the mortgage my father gave of it and seven years of additional term from myself and, after the lapse of these seven years, until I the aforesaid Lewis shall give four pounds, English, in respect of this share and the mortgage of Turlough which is on it. And further be it known to you that every covenant from my father, that is Turlough, affecting this portion, is an obligation on me, according as it is recited in the indenture of Richard and the children of Daniel O'Dowling with each other; exclusive of the seven years I the aforesaid Lewis have given on myself. And in testimony thereof I have put my hand and seal hereto the twenty-ninth day of the month of June, 1594.

half a gneeve of land in Tully in this same county, and the grass, water, wood, bog, ploughed land and every other appurtenance which go with this third, until we the children of Murtough or our heirs give to the aforesaid Richard or his heirs one and twenty cows, customary in the country, in respect of this third. And whenever we redeem this land, Richard shall have a term of three years on this third after its redemption; and during these three years Richard shall give us for rent whatever highest rent Richard himself, or another person, would take for a like quantity of Tully during that time. And we the aforesaid three persons are bound to restrain our brother Gilladuff O'Dowling, who is not present, until he give his consent or his hand hereto. And we are bound to be unanimously disposed for the redemption at the time it shall be effected, otherwise, the redemption will not be complete. And if Richard shall erect buildings on Tully we must satisfy the debt of this third in respect of the buildings, in the same manner as the redemption, according to the award of just men; the mill and castle being excluded. And know you further that the mortgage our father took from Nicholas Walsh and Richard himself is in this account, and Richard, and ourselves in like manner, have revived Murtough's agreement; but we are to deliver the same land out of our hands to Richard and must duly protect his rights therein, and Richard must deliver the same land back into our hands again, if we fulfil everything mentioned for him in this writing, and must befriend and protect us and our man in it according to his power as we shall act to him likewise. And know you further that we have appointed and put in our place, as our faithful attorney, Oireachtach MacBrian to take possession of this land and the premises aforesaid and give possession of the same to the aforesaid Richard according to the effect and force of this writing and in witness hereof we have put our hands and seals thereto the 23rd day of the month of June 1595.

In the name of God amen.

In the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Ghost, this will of Edmund Grace begins, viz., in the first place he bequeaths his soul to God and Mary and to the protection and vigilance of Michael the archangel and all the saints in the kingdom of God, and his body to be buried in the monastery of Baltinglass. Likewise he is leaving his worldly goods in three parts and here is how he leaves these three parts, namely the first third to his soul, and the second third to his daughter and his son-in-law, namely John son of Walter, and the third third to his wife. Likewise he is leaving twenty shillings, English, to Mulrony MacGriffy and five shillings to Dermot MacGriffy, and five shillings to John Oge, and here are the witnesses that were present at this will, namely his testamentary priest, that is Mulrony MacGriffy, and John son of Walter Stecombe, and Connla and Donnucan O'Cullen, in the year of our Lord 1606.

Likewise here are the executors he left over his worldly goods namely John Stecombe and his own wife, according to the above witnesses, the 20th day of the month of December in the year of our Lord 1606.

DUBLIN CASTLE,

29th July, 1898.

SIR,

I have to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 27th instant, forwarding, for submission to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, the Thirtieth Report of the Deputy Keeper of the State Papers in Ireland.

I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed)

THE THIRTIETH REPORT
OF THE
DEPUTY KEEPER OF THE PUBLIC RECORDS
AND KEEPER OF THE STATE PAPERS
IN IRELAND.

TO THE RIGHT HONORABLE THE EARL
CADOGAN, K.G.,

LORD LIEUTENANT-GENERAL AND GENERAL GOVERNOR OF IRELAND.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY.

1. In the introductory note to the Index to the Act or Grant Books, and to the original wills of the diocese of Dublin, 1272-1800, published as an Appendix to my 26th Report, it was pointed out that there were gaps in the sequence of Marriage Licences from 1672 to 1697, and from 1713 to 1741, which had occurred since the return was made in 1811 to the late Record Licences for these periods had been made from a transcript of an Commission; and it was explained that the Index to the Marriage Index in the possession of H. Farnham Burke, esq., Somerset Herald, and was printed as Addenda to that Appendix. Since then most of the missing volumes have been found by Mr. Samuels, the Registrar of the Diocese of Dublin, amongst the Rule-books in his office. These volumes cover the periods 1672-1685, and 1713 to 1741, leaving those for 1685 to 1697 still wanting. The transcript has been found to have been, originally, so carelessly made, that it will be necessary to print a list of errata, which it is hoped will be completed in time for next year's report. A schedule of the four recovered volumes will be found at paragraph 74.

2. Mr. R. C. Maxwell, of this office, having again passed the examination for the Higher Grade in the Civil Service has been appointed to the English Local Government Department, and Mr. Jerred has been transferred to the same department. Mr. Charles Evelyn Royds, B.A., of Cambridge, and Mr. Charles J. T.

B. Grylls, B.A., of the same university, have been appointed to the vacant places on the 21st April and 20th October, 1897, respectively.

3. It appearing from the catalogue of the late Sir Thomas Phillipps' library that certain MS. books and papers in the nature of State Papers and Records, that had at one time been in the possession of State Departments in Ireland, were to be sold by auction at Messrs. Sotheby's, application was made to the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, through the Chief Secretary for Ireland, to have same purchased. This application was very cordially entertained both by Mr. Balfour and their Lordships, and Mr. James Mills of this department was sent over to examine them in conjunction with Mr. Warner, of the British Museum, and in the result twenty lots were purchased and transferred here. A schedule of them will be found at paragraph 72, and a Report, by Mr. H. F. Berry, on their nature and contents in Appendix I.

4. The Rev. H. C. Groves, D.D., a son of the Mr. Groves, one of the Sub-Commissioners employed upon the Chancery Records, by the late Record Commission of Ireland, has deposited some original records, which he found amongst his father's papers. They have been interpolated in their respective series, and a list of them will be found at paragraph 73.

State Paper Office.

5. The papers of the Chief Secretary's Office for the year 1887 were received in March. They have been examined, checked and put up in 50 carton boxes numbered 3,309 to 3,358. The Index and Register of the same office for 1885, three large volumes, were also received.

6. From the Privy Council Office there came in April the papers of that Department for 1884 to 1888, contained in 55 cartons. These have also been checked and put up. The following books of the Council Office were received:—3 Letter Books, 1879–88, 8 Minute Books, 1839–86, 11 Order Books, 1876–86.

7. The searches made for the Chief Secretary's Office numbered 262, 49 more than in the previous year. Mr. C. L. Falkiner, Mr. J. H. Scaife of the Quit Rent Office, and Mr. J. H. Reddan of the Foreign Office, having respectively obtained permission of the Chief Secretary, have been permitted to make searches or examine State Papers.

8. As mentioned in last report the papers remaining in the Tower of earlier date than 1760 had been arranged in Chronological order, and placed in 13 carton boxes. To these papers a manuscript calendar was prepared in 1897, extending to 318 pages. The papers and calendar have been transferred to the Public Record Office.

9. The arrangement of the papers of the next period, 1760–98 has been commenced, and some progress made. A calendar of these has been taken in hand. Following the lines of the partial arrangement already existing, it is intended to treat these papers in two classes: 1, Official Letters; 2, Miscellaneous Letters and Papers.

10. An important but unfortunately very defective series of books called "Private Official Letter Books," has been examined, and as far as the year 1789 transferred to the Record Office. The earlier books of this series contain chiefly entries of letters from the Lords' Justices to the Lord Lieutenant when in England. They thus tend to complete the historical value of the letters in the series "British Departmental Correspondence" already transferred. Two of the volumes consist of original letters from the Earl of Bristol when Lord Lieutenant, 1766-7. The later volumes are entry books of letters from the Irish Government to English Departments.

11. All papers connected with proceedings in Council for Unions or divisions of Parishes and changes of site of Parish Churches, down to 1845, have been collected, arranged according to Dioceses, and made up in thirty parcels. An Index-catalogue has been made; and they have been transferred to the Public Record Office.

12. A considerable quantity of papers relating to military affairs have been found, which complete or supplement series already transferred to the Record Office. They include letters from the Commander of the Forces (1804-29), the Home Office, War Office, London, Quarter-Master-General, &c.; also Militia Regimental Papers, Militia Depot papers, &c. These have been examined, arranged, parcelled, and with a few books of the Military Department, transferred to the Public Record Office.

13. Thirty-six volumes and a few parcels of papers of the Yeomanry Department were also examined, cleansed, arranged, and transferred.

14. Among the duties of the Yeomanry Department of the Chief Secretary's Office was the granting of licences for the sale of Gunpowder, and for the sale and repair of Arms. The applications, certificates and returns connected with these licences were very numerous. They have been arranged, cleaned, flattened, and made up in 340 brown paper parcels, in the following series: Gunpowder licences 1824-37 (with some earlier) arranged by counties; second series 1841-2 arranged chronologically; Arms licences 1822-37; return of Arms sold 1822-38. They have been transferred to the Public Record Office.

15. A number of papers relating to distress, famine and fever in Ireland in 1822 have been examined. They include applications for relief from different parts of the country, and reports upon them. These have been arranged by counties. Other papers relate to the general organisation of the relief; London and other relief committees; relief works; purchase and distribution of potatoes and meal; fever reports and medical aid. These have been arranged according to subjects. They have been transferred to the Public Record Office.

16. The papers connected with the Cholera outbreak 1832-4 have been put in order. The original arrangement had been under letters, according to the initial letter of the parish or dis-strict from which the reports were received. This arrangement, admitting of ready local reference, has been carried out. The papers have been made up in 49 parcels and transferred to the Public Record Office.

17. In 1833 a Commission was issued to enquire into the condition of the Irish Poor. Sub-Commissioners went through the country and held local or parochial public enquiries in many parts of the country. For the purpose of these enquiries a very long series of printed questions was supplied to the Sub-Commissioners. At these enquiries all classes were usually represented—landlords, clergy of different denominations, farmers and other employers, labourers, and sometimes even professed beggars. A number of reports of these local enquiries have been found, containing replies to the questions, frequently in the words of the persons present. The answers appear generally to have been given with much freedom. The reports forthcoming have been arranged by counties; those best represented are Westmeath, Wexford, and Londonderry.

18. In the following year the Commissioners directed their attention to the condition of agriculture and agricultural holdings in Ireland. Similar enquiries were held by baronies. The reports preserved have been arranged according to provinces.

19. Beside these direct public enquiries, the Commissioners sought information as to the condition of those Irish who had settled in the manufacturing towns of England and Scotland. With this purpose they sent sheets of printed queries to the Roman Catholic priests of towns or districts where Irish were known to have settled. In several cases replies, sometimes of considerable interest, were received. These papers have all been transferred to the Public Record Office.

20. A considerable number of reports and papers relating to Distress in 1846-7 have been arranged by counties and made up in brown-paper parcels. Some of these need further classification, and will require to be inserted in the regular papers of their year.

21. A large number of papers relating to convicts and prisoners have been examined and arranged in three series:—

i. The series of Judges' reports on cases, with memorials, &c., in favour of the prisoners, has been completed to 1827, by replacing several files and parcels misplaced in other collections. The insertion of references to the added papers in the index has been commenced.

ii. Prisoners' petitions and cases not referred to judges have been arranged in years from 1798 to 1835 in readiness for indexing. They form 26 parcels.

iii. Papers relating to transportation or disposal of convicts have been arranged in years 1788 to 1835, in 13 parcels.

22. A transfer of Records to the Public Record Office under warrant was, as usual, carried out in December. The papers transferred have been incidentally noted above; a schedule will be found at paragraph 44.

TRANSFERS.

There have been transferred to and deposited in the Public Record Office during the past year the following records:—

75. The Deeds affecting the right of the Crown, deposited here by the Quit Rent Office during the year, number fifty-three; of these forty-six are Conveyances of Crown and Quit Rents.

Sorting and Arrangement of Records.

76. The re-arrangement of the Chancery Answers has been completed from 1569-1771, containing 10,366 fasciculi made up into 1846 brown paper parcels. This completes the series of Chancery Bills and Answers, and experience has shown the change to be very advantageous to the quick handling of the Records and their preservation from damp, dust, and decay. The same process has been commenced for the Equity Exchequer Bills and Answers, and has advanced from 1787-1850 for the latter, and from 1790-1850 for the former, comprising together 8,574 fasciculi made into 1245 brown paper parcels.

77. One thousand one hundred and sixty-three parcels of Records from the Clerks of the Crown and Peace of the counties of Carlow, Cavan, Derry, Down, Kerry, Louth, Meath, and Sligo, and one hundred and sixty-seven parcels of Census returns 1841 of the City of Dublin have been stamped, in addition to those stamped from day to day before being submitted to public inspection.

78. Six parcels of the Parochial Returns of the Dioceses of Raphoe and Tuam, eighty-nine of Parliamentary Petitions, and sixteen of Parliamentary Returns have been numbered with type.

79. One hundred and nine parcels of See Leases of the Dioceses of Aghadoe, Ardagh, Kilmore, Limerick, Ossory, Raphoe, and Tuam; twenty-four parcels of Building Papers of Armagh, Raphoe, Tuam and Waterford, and forty-three parcels of Patents, Titles, Visitations, &c., of Ardfert, Cashel and Emly, Down and Connor, Ferns, Leighlin and Ossory have been folded to a uniform size.

80. The Cause Papers of the Court of Chancery were arranged in dictionary order in four classes under the names of the four last surviving or retiring Masters, viz:—Murphy, Litton, Brooke, and Fitzgibbon, or the Receiving Master, which arrangement was found in practice to be confusing and unfair to the public, as it often happened that the Cause sought for had been in more than one Master's office. It has, therefore, been deemed advisable to throw the four collections into one, and, at the same time, as it was found that they were deteriorating from exposure on the shelves and from being folded in four and tied together in parcels, the opportunity was taken of flattening them, as had been done with other Cause Papers, and arranging them in brown paper parcels. This process has been advanced as far as the end of letter E, making 8855 bundles of Cause Papers.

81. Two thousand five hundred and eleven Marriage Licence Bonds of the Diocese of Cork and Ross, and twelve hundred and eighty-two of the Diocese of Cloyne, have been repaired, sized, and pasted on guards; one Parish Register of ninety pages, sized and re-bound; one hundred and twenty volumes of Records, and one hundred and twenty-six volumes of Patents of Invention bound.

Indexing and Calendaring.

82. The draft Index to the Grants and Wills of the Diocese of Dublin, 1800-1858, has been engrossed, and is ready for printing, and will be published as Appendix III. to this Report.

83. Indexes have been completed to the Ardfert Grant Book, 1827-1831; the Armagh Marriage Licence Books, 1826 1832, 1832-1837, and 1837 to 1845; the Ferns Will and Grant Book, 1823--1832; the Ossory and Leighlin Marriage Licence Book, 1822--1832, and the Meath Grant and Marriage Licence Book, 1822--1857.

84. Indexes have been completed to the Marriage Licence Bonds of the Diocese of Armagh, 1727-1845 (3 volumes); Clonfert, 1739--1844; Down, Connor, and Dromore, 1721--1845, and Limerick, 1727--1844.

85. An Index has been prepared to the 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, and 30th Reports of the Deputy Keeper, and printed as Appendix II.

Proceedings under the Parochial Records Acts, 38 & 39 Vict., c. 59, and 39 & 40 Vict., c. 58.

86. The Annual Reports of Parochial Officers having custody of Records under Retention Orders were all duly received.

87. The Retention Orders which had been issued up to the commencement of the present year number 571.

88. A Register of the parish of Forgnay was repaired and rebound at the request of the parochial custodian.

89. The Records of the following parishes which became attachable during the year 1897 have been removed to this Department.

| Parish. | County. | Vols. | Baptisms. | Marriages. | Burials. |
|-----------------------|--------------|-------|-----------|------------|----------------|
| Ballymascanlan, . . . | Louth, . . . | 5 | 1801-1897 | 1805-1815 | 1817-1897 (a). |

| Rossmire, | Waterford, . | 1 | 1834-1896 | 1803-1849 | 1836-1897 |

(a) Also two burial entries, 1801 and 1803.

90. In the following parishes the Records which became attachable were allowed to remain in local custody under Retention Orders.

Desertmartin.
Glasnevin.
Killaloe.

Portadown.
Tullow (Diocese of Leighlin).

91. A Parish Register of Owenduff, containing entries of baptisms and burials from 1828 to 1845 and of marriages from 1828 to 1868, which was reported missing in 1891 (see 23rd Report, page 17, and 25th Report, page 36) has been recovered, and was retained here for rebinding.

92. Two Registers of the parish of Carrigrohane containing entries 1787-1801 and 1824-1847, which were not returned upon the original Inventory, were recovered by Rev. F. Dobbin, Chancellor of Cork Cathedral, the Incumbent of the parish, and deposited here under a Warrant of the Master of the Rolls.

93. The former of these two books is earlier in date than the three volumes which have been of record here since 1877, and the latter fills up a gap in the series of entries contained in those three books. The years covered by the various entries for this parish now are :—

| | | | | | | |
|------------|---|---|---|---|---|-----------|
| Baptisms, | . | . | . | . | . | 1791-1877 |
| Marriages, | . | . | . | . | . | 1787-1845 |
| Burials, | . | . | . | . | . | 1789-1877 |

94. In the case of the parish of Moydow a Register, containing entries of baptisms, marriages, and burials from 1794 to 1819 would appear to have disappeared between the date of the return of the original Inventory in 1875, and the time when the Registers became attachable in 1897.

95. Upon the application of Rev. Canon Walsh, D.D., the Order of the Master of the Rolls respecting the records of the parish of St. Peter's, Dublin, was supplemented by an Order allowing the baptismal register of St. Stephen's, Dublin, 1866-1888, to remain in the custody of the Incumbent of the last-mentioned church, its place of deposit being still within the parish of St. Peter's. At the request of the respective Incumbents of the parishes of Clonsast and Maryborough permission was given to change the position of the safes provided for the Records of those parishes, and new Retention Orders were granted, when the work had been done, in the usual course.

96. The fees received in stamps during the year amounted to £863 2s. 6*d.*, being a decrease of £15 15s. 6*d.* on the amount credited in 1896.

In addition to the above, fees on copies made for Public Departments have been remitted to the amount of £28 3s. 6*d.*

97. I have to acknowledge the following donations :—Two volumes of Record Publications by the Keeper of the Records of Scotland ; a volume entitled “ The Winders of Lorton,” by the author, F. A. Winder, esq. ; and the second volume of the “ Hand-list of Proclamations,” by the editor, the Right Honorable the Earl of Crawford.

98. A considerable number of searches have been made during the past year in connection with matters of historical and antiquarian interest. Among the subjects investigated I may mention the History of the parishes of Antrim, Ardee, Forgney, Monkstown, Tullylish, and Whitechurch ; the Dublin Hospitals ; the Irish Regiments of Guards ; and the 14th Hussars (formerly 14th Regiment of Dragons).

Dated at the Public Record Office,
Four Courts, Dublin, this Fourteenth day of May, 1898.

J. J. DIGGES LA TOUCHE,

Deputy Keeper of the Public Records and Keeper of State Papers in Ireland.

I humbly certify to your Excellency that this Report is made by the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records and Keeper of the State Papers in Ireland, under my direction, pursuant to the Statute.

A. M. PORTER,

Master of the Rolls.

APPENDIX I.

Mr. H. F. Berry's Report on the MSS. purchased at the sale of Sir Thomas Phillipps' Library.

These MSS. are chiefly connected with the Southwell family, and formed part of the collection originally put up for sale in 1834 by Thorpe, of Bedford-street, when a large number of the Southwell papers were acquired for the British Museum. The twenty lots comprise thirty-six separate items, namely, two entry books of correspondence, and one of inquisitions post mortem; twenty-seven volumes of bound letters, &c., and six portfolios of unbound letters. One of the entry books was already indexed; the other volume and the calendar of Inquisitions have now been fully indexed, and a catalogue of all the remaining documents has been prepared.

The inquisitions entered in the volume referred to range between the years 1616 and 1633, with one of the year 1587, and as proving the importance of its acquisition, a list of no less than seventy inquisitions recorded in it, which are not to be found in the Record Commissioners' printed catalogues, has been compiled (See p. 59.) The book, which is entitled "Liber omnium inquisitionum transcriptorum in Officio Rememoratoris Thesaurarii et Secundi Rememoratoris scaccarii ex curia cancellariæ Hiberniæ" is noted as having belonged to the library of Sir James Ware (who had been Auditor General), and also as having formed an item in the Chandos collection.

The index to it has been prepared in the names of the parties on whose decease the inquisitions were taken, arranged by counties, on a plan similar to that adopted by the Record Commissioners.

The Kildare and Inchiquin families, the lords Dillon, the Roches, Conways, and many other ancient houses are represented in this volume.

Next in order of date, (save some of the papers connected with the Southwell family) is a MS. account of what passed in the wars and rebellion of Ireland from 1641 to about 1653—a short view and condition of the Kingdom of Ireland—written by Sir Edward Hyde (afterwards Earl of Clarendon) when at Cologne, which may be taken as the foundation of his printed history.

There is also an account of the costs incurred in subduing the Irish rebellion of 1641, and the damage sustained by the Protestants. Other important documents are the Account of Sir Adam Loftus, Vice-treasurer, of the Revenue of Ireland, 1638–9–40, and the manuscript Instructions by the Commissioners of the Commonwealth of England, to be observed by the judges and officers of every court of justice, held weekly in any city or town in Ireland. (This last has a note to the effect that it was printed at Dublin by William Bladen, 1653.)

A very interesting paper is the Report, dated from London, 23rd November, 1658, drawn up by W. Dickinson for Robert Southwell, junior (afterwards Sir Robert Southwell), on draining and reclaiming the bogs in Ireland.

Among these manuscripts, there are papers and correspondence connected with three generations of the Southwell family. Commencing with Robert Southwell, customer of Kinsale, who amassed a large fortune and died in 1676/7, we next meet with his distinguished son, Sir Robert, born in 1635. He was clerk of the privy council, and envoy extraordinary to several foreign courts, subsequently becoming principal Secretary of State for Ireland. Sir Robert accompanied King William on his campaign in 1690, his letters from the various camps being of extreme interest. He held office until his death in 1702, when his son, Edward Southwell, succeeded him as Chief Secretary. Edward Southwell married firstly, Lady Elizabeth Cromwell (afterwards Baroness Cromwell), daughter of Vere, Earl of Ardglass, the "Lady Betty" so frequently mentioned in the correspondence; and secondly, Anne, daughter of William Blathwayte, Secretary of State, &c., to William the Third, through which alliance, the papers of the last named came to be united with the Southwell MSS.

The earliest parcel contains depositions, petitions and memoranda, 1635-1640, in the matter of certain charges made by Robert May, of Dublin, against Robert Southwell, the elder, of neglecting his duties as customer and collector of the Port of Kinsale, of non-observance of rules and regulations, and specially for having made money out of some Virginia tobacco imported in 1636 by Captain Batson and John Slowly. In March and April, 1637-8, Southwell was detained in confinement in Dublin in the house of a Mr. Haughton and of one Gunnis, a pursuivant, whence there are letters to his wife and to Sir Philip Percivall, whose son, Sir John, afterwards married Southwell's daughter, Katherine.

One of the papers is endorsed "1649 articles of Tristram Whitcomb, against Mr. Southwell, for his loyalty to y^e King and assisting Prince Rupert (taken to London, 1698)," but no such document is in the parcel. In 1648 Southwell, out of his own resources, provisioned and supplied with money some ships under command of Prince Rupert at Kinsale, without which timely assistance the Prince could not have put to sea, and there is a copy of a King's letter, dated 28th September, 1660, for a grant to him of certain lands in county Cork, forfeited by Philip Barry oge and James Mellifont, as satisfaction for his advance.

As a large portion of the Southwell estates lay in the neighbourhood of Kinsale, its interests and concerns, as well as those of individuals among its townfolk, are frequently dealt with in the collection. Kinsale harbour was celebrated for affording shelter to the home and foreign navies, as well as ships laden with merchandise from every part of the globe, and in the 17th century, a naval station with dockyard, was established there. During the Irish wars, and especially at a time when smuggling and privateering prevailed to such an alarming extent on the South and West coasts, this harbour, from its position, became of great importance to the trade of the channel, and hence, a good deal of the correspondence is taken up with it. Among the papers are rent rolls and surveys of Kinsale and its liberties, in 1658. The corporation proposed to become tenants of certain of the forfeited lands, but Southwell's interests appeared to conflict with theirs, and there are memoranda in his handwriting, detailing services rendered by him in the concerns of that body. A remarkable memorial exists, asking for an assistant minister, and praying that Taxax (Tisaxon) and Rincurran parishes should be united to Kinsale, which states that many of the popish inhabitants had joined with the English in securing the town against the Irish.

Vol. 12⁵/₅ is occupied with the unseemly riot and quarrel that took place on the swearing in of John Suxbery as Sovereign of Kinsale, in 1672. Sir R. Southwell was himself present, and addressed a letter to the lord chancellor on the subject. When the case came before the council he was examined, and an order was made attaching Gookin, Stowell, and other rioters.

In October, 1690, Banfield (Southwell's steward) gave him an account of some prizes in Kinsale harbour, which he said were there when the forts were taken, and which Lord Marlborough claimed as his right. During 1691-2, the Danish auxiliary forces were quartered in Kinsale, before being shipped for Flanders, and the soldiers committed great waste and injury, especially in Southwell's woods, and they cut down orchards, and dugged up gardens for some distance round. A French regiment was also quartered on the town, and fifty horses of Colonel Churchill's regiment grazed on Sir Robert's lands at Rincurran for over a year. There is a list which was sent to Southwell, received 27th March, 1691, and endorsed by him—"Great men lodged at my house at Kinsale"—which includes the names of the Earl of Marlborough and Brigadier Churchill. In 1703 Colonel Oglethorpe wrote that there was then in Kinsale, on board the "Swede"—a prize, as good wine as in France, which might be got for His Grace (Ormond). The French prisoners in Kinsale in 1705 caused a considerable amount of anxiety and trouble; there was no proper prison, and their ill health, consequent on confinement and overcrowding, became a serious source of danger to the townspeople. Lacroix, writing on 1st June, 1705, reports that the prisoners were recovering; he had sent them to Brown's mill under a guard, to wash and take the air while the prison was being cleaned and perfumed with burnt tar, and clean straw laid in it. He hoped soon to have a prison and hospital built. James Maule made a remarkable statement, namely, that the ministers and elders of the French Church in Cork had asked him to speak to the French prisoners of war, (born protestants), with a view to learnin; if they would be willing to serve on board Her Majesty's ships, getting a bounty, but the officers in charge would not allow him to meddle with them. Three young fellows, protestants, however, came to him, declaring their willingness to serve the Queen and never return to France.

In 1703, there is news of those on board a privateer being very civil to the inhabitants of the Isles of Arran, the crew paying good rates for everything they took. "In the old Duke of Ormonde's time, a garrison was kept in the Isles, which greatly secured the shipping on the coast."

Throughout the correspondence, there are frequent glimpses of the war on the Continent. Thus, in March, 1691, Southwell writes that his son (Edward) got back from Flanders to the Hague, and His Majesty had gone to the army to try and raise the siege of Mons. A letter from Cork, dated 23rd January, 1704, conveys the intelligence that a ship which left Gibraltar twelve days before had put into Kinsale, with news that the place held out stoutly, and only two small frigates there. Alderman Hoare, of Cork, who communicated this intelligence, had some days before made proposals for victualling Gibraltar from Ireland.

In May, 1705, a packet boat from Lisbon put in at Dingle, which brought a full account of an attack on Valenze, Estremadura, by our forces under Colonel Duncanson, the Dutch and Portuguese. "Nothing can be attempted this summer campaign as the enemy outnumber us in cavalry." A list is given of killed and wounded from the regiments of Lord Portmore, Blood, Brudenell, Duncanson, and Cunningham. In June, 1705, there was news from Cork of the fleet destined for Portugal having sailed with 2,500 men on board. Intelligence also arrived of a fleet of large ships (about 100 sail), supposed to be the Dutch, that sailed from Portsmouth in May, having been seen standing in for Lisbon.

Some of the papers are specially concerned with Sir Robert Southwell's suspected complicity in the Popish plot. There are depositions before a committee of the House, list of Oates's papers, informations of various persons as to the plot, and orders to search documents left by the Spanish Ambassador in Humphry Weld's garden ; also an order of the Lords for attendance in March, 1678, of Sir John Nicholas, Sir Robert Southwell, Sir Philip Lloyd, and Sir Thomas Dolman with papers relating to the plot, together with a vindication of Southwell by the House of Lords, and votes of the Commons.

That portion of Sir Robert's career in which he acted as Envoy to foreign States is also represented in the collection. In 1670, he wrote vindicating himself from some censure on him in the Court of Lisbon, asserting that Verjeux (de Verjus) was the slanderer. The Conde de Miranda, Ambassador at Madrid, had honoured him in every way, and in Paris he had visited de Macedo, the Prince of Tuscany, and others, all zealous for the honour of Portugal, who treated him with every respect.

In 1680, Sir Robert was envoy to the court of Frederick William, Elector of Brandenburg, and there is some correspondence between them in Latin, with translations into French. One letter deals with the seizure of the vessel "Charles the Second," near Ostend, and in another from Berlin, Southwell gives Secretary Jenkins an account of a long audience with the Elector. Tangiers (Queen Catherine's portion) is also mentioned, and a correspondent in Lisbon gives Southwell the points reserved by the British Commissioners for a conference with reference to it in 1683.

The variety of subjects dealt with in these papers is only limited by the number of questions daily and hourly being brought before men like Southwell, holding responsible executive positions. The Chief Secretary for Ireland in the 17th and 18th centuries was in constant communication with the Military, Naval, and Revenue authorities ; he gave all instructions as to transports, embarkations, and war vessels convoying merchantmen, and was instantly informed of the movements of privateers in the Channel. The defences and fortifications of the country and the guarding of the coast were his constant care, so that in addition to his parliamentary duties, he was responsible for several departments, which have since those days been withdrawn from such oversight, and placed under separate officials, responsible for their management. During a period when the religious question in Ireland was of such a burning nature, the conduct of enactments against the Roman Catholics must be added, and a number of documents in the collection are conversant with the established Church, its clergy, convocation, the popery laws, foreign priests and friars coming into the kingdom, as well as with the presbyterians and other dissenters. Several of the documents bear also on the French Huguenot churches, and their pastors, and on the French pensioners.

Many letters and reports affect the city of Dublin, its streets and institutions ; municipal affairs take up a large space, and the questions involved in the deliberate opposition shown to the Government by the Town Council in 1712, in the selection of Mayor and Sheriffs, are amply discussed, much fresh light being thrown on these events.

The disposal of the forfeited estates in Ireland, the Court of Claims, and the carrying out of the enactments consequent on the articles of Limerick and Galway, afforded Southwell much anxiety, and the question of the revenue resulting from the forfeitures is frequently dealt with.

The volume entitled "Irish Book" (which contains Mr. Secretary Gwyn's book plate), is an entry book of letters written by the Earl of Rochester, lord treasurer of England, and his secretaries, to the lord lieutenant and lords justices of Ireland, the Commissioners of the Revenue, and many others on various questions that came before the King, from February, 1684, to December, 1686. The correspondence is chiefly conversant with revenue matters, fines, custodians, quit rents, customs, and army clothing and accoutrements.

Lord Rochester subsequently became lord lieutenant of Ireland, and one portion of the miscellaneous correspondence consists of letters on military matters written by him between July, 1701, and July, 1702.

The next volume is the original entry book of letters written by Lord Capell, when lord lieutenant, and the lords justices from February, 1694-5, to May, 1696, most of them addressed to the Duke of Shrewsbury, and it contains the book plate of Algernon, Earl of Essex, 1701. One letter, dated 9th July, 1695, gives the first hint of the State Paper Office, Lord Capell recommending its establishment in the Castle, for deposit of the books of entry of Chief Governors' orders, and he is "content to begin with his own books, and have them the first of record." In another letter, Dr. Ashe, bishop of Cloyne, is reported to be desirous of the rank of privy councillor, which is "interpreted as a desire in him to be excused from residing on his bishopric; he is a young deserving gentleman, but this his early ambition gives great offence both to the clergy and the nobility here."

The Council always sent to England the Bills introduced, and the correspondence deals with the more important ones, such as those concerning the forfeited lands and the Roman Catholics. The King's prerogative in the matter of Money Bills is often mentioned.

Lord Capell made grievous complaint of Lord Chancellor Porter's high handed proceedings and haughty tone with regard to himself, and in some of his letters to the Duke of Shrewsbury will be found a narrative "of the passage" (as His Excellency terms it) that occurred between them. Capell wished to make William Neave, whom the Chancellor considered his personal enemy, a Serjeant-at-law, and the latter refused to seal the patent. The lord deputy exercised the utmost forbearance in the matter, but felt it right to lay before His Majesty certain cases in which Porter was shown to have avowed the Irish interest, and favoured adherents of King James. The cases were those of Shapland in Wexford and Mr. Knox (whose commission as Sheriff he had opposed the sealing of), and full reports of them are given. The matter ended in favour of Lord Capell's nominee, as a letter was addressed by him to the King on 15th January, 1695-6, thanking his Majesty for having ordered the Chancellor to seal Neave's patent.

In May, 1696, Capell became so ill, that he retired to Chapelizod for rest, and appointed Lord Blesinton, and Colonel Wolsley lords justices, and His Excellency's case becoming serious, they wrote urgently as to providing for the Government in case of his death, which occurred on 30th May, 1696. The judges and Council had been consulted, and not being unanimous in opinion as to whether the Commission of the lords justices determined with his death, the latter decided on not acting without the King's special directions, though the law officers were of opinion it did not determine. Those opposed to the Lord Chancellor now said that he used every means to get himself appointed lord justice. In pursuance of the Act 33 Henry VIII., the Council was summoned, but with undue haste, and he was elected, to the chagrin of Lord Meath, who specially wrote to Shrewsbury that he had himself expected to be chosen. Lord Meath went the length of asserting that Porter had pretended a letter from England saying that the King wished his appointment. That it was a popular one is evident from the fact that there were bonfires and illuminations in his honour, but certain members of the house of Commons brought forward a complaint as to the methods adopted by Porter, the articles as to which were rejected. Certain of the Irish Peers, including lords Meath and Blesinton (the ex-lord justice), petitioned against the appointment, as of evil consequence to the kingdom, and a breach of the privileges of the peerage. The Speaker of the Commons put an affront on the Lord Chancellor the night the latter made his defence before that House, by causing the horses of his coach to be stopped, to allow his own to pass, which was taken as an indication of the very strong feeling against him.

In February, 1703, the Duke of Ormond was appointed Viceroy of Ireland. The lords justices gave minute directions for His Grace's reception on landing, and there is an account of Ormond's progress from London to Dublin between the 20th May and 4th June, 1703. There is a very important memorandum drawn up by Edward Southwell, principal Secretary of State, for Ormond's guidance in the government, in which he recommends to him the care of the Church, and his keeping a strict hand over the army, especially the recruiting department. The army here never to be of less strength than twelve regiments of foot, six of horse, and four of dragoons. In England's emergency during the late war, no project for money answered so well as the £14 per cent. Act; if one at £15 per cent. were calculated for Ireland, "all nations would send their money thither."

Southwell also dealt with the hardship of ships for Ireland being compelled to unload in England, pay the English customs duty, and then reload for Ireland, and he recommended that the English duty should be collected in Ireland. He hopes for encouragement of the linen manufacture, and the victualling of the Navy in beef and butter, largely from Ireland.

In March, Joshua Dawson, Secretary to the lord justices, wrote to Southwell that the opinion here was that the Duke had no power to sign commissions as lord lieutenant, until he had taken the oaths. The lords justices had received no order from the Queen as to obeying directions from His Grace, which they ought to have, such orders having been given in Lord Rochester's case; these orders were subsequently renewed for Ormond. A letter of 2nd March, 1702-3, debated the question of the lords justices' commission not being vacated by Rochester's surrender, and as to their holding directly from the Queen.

In Dawson's correspondence with Southwell at this time, there is a remarkable statement as to his views with regard to English methods in Irish revenue matters. He asks that a certain letter of credit should not charge the transport of some regiments for Holland to the Irish Revenue, "which cannot bear such an expense, but that same be paid out of the Treasury of England, which, if you don't take care in, they will most certainly place it upon us, as they always do, when they have an opportunity."

In the same connexion, it is interesting to note that with a view to the approaching coronation (Queen Anne's), new trumpets and kettle-drums were required for the "State," the sergeant-at-arms wanted a new mace, the late King's cipher was to be taken off the coats of the heralds and pursuivants, state canopies, &c., and the whole matter was to be laid before Ormond, who might get all in England, if he liked. Rochester had brought over new liveries and states, &c., but in his case a letter had arrived, charging £1,500 for them, "the first of that sort that Ireland ever paid for" (adds Dawson).

Secretary Dawson's rather lengthy epistles supply much interesting information, and two or three of them written soon after Southwell's appointment as Chief Secretary, deal with the accommodation provided for him in the Castle. Over the offices were lodgings with reception rooms, bedrooms, &c., and there was ample stabling in the yard. Dawson informed his chief that sealing wax was always supplied from London—pretty good—and he begged him to purchase ten or twelve pounds of the best, and 2,000 or 3,000 Dutch quills, "which cannot be got in Ireland, and have to be sent for to London. We can have paper here of the best sorts, yet cannot always be provided with it; send a quantity to Alderman Allen to Chester, to be sent with other things."

Lot 153 consists of letters from Anderson Saunders (M P. for the borough of Taghmon, county Wexford) to Edward Southwell, which give an account of affairs in Parliament and in the city, during December, 1713, and January, 1713-4, as well as of the proceedings against the lord chancellor, Sir Constantine Phipps. As a precaution, these letters were nearly always sent under cover to his wife's mother, who resided in London. The Government party was at this period involved in difficulties, and the power of the Whigs was growing.

In a letter to Ormond, Saunders mentions that the Lord Chancellor, the chief judges and others are all to be struck at, and he tells Southwell that Ormond himself "keeps much at Chapelizod, never concerning himself with what is done at Chichester House." In telling of the House having come to resolutions in favour of the city charters, he lays all at the Lord Chancellor's door, and asserts, from his knowledge of the temper of the House, that unless the whigs are gratified by his removal, no further supply will be voted. As to the alleged offer of £500 to get a good Common Council, Tucker and Gore, on their examination before the lords, fully cleared the Chancellor. "If the whigs are gratified they will not stop there, but will expect the country to be put into their hands; hopes for the joyful news of Her Majesty's recovery." "From the lukewarmness in a certain place, it is given out that the Tories have the Pretender in view. The leading men are for continuing their persecution of the lord Chancellor, &c., not thinking the Kingdom safe (as they say) from the Pretender until they have the care of it put into their own hands."

In addition to parliamentary questions already alluded to, there are several copies of Acts during the Session of 1695, and letters as to the voting in the House. During 1696-7, Parliament was engaged in considering measures for confirming the articles of Limerick and Galway, for settling a Militia, and as to the outlawries, the linen manufacture, the education of the Irish in the Protestant religion, &c., together with legislating on such matters as planting certain lands lying on Cork Harbour and the Shannon with Protestants. The Council in transmitting the bills to England made copious observations on them.

In a long letter addressed to the Earl of Nottingham, on 24th December, 1715, is given a full account of the late Session.

A memorial about the Tillage Bill in Ireland at this period contains the statement that in a foreign market, Irish corn will hardly yield half the price of English. The encouragement of this Bill will not prejudice English trade abroad, for where such is transported no Irish victual will sell at any price, except in cases of great scarcity.

The Irish Government of the day had to deal with a good deal of sedition and disrespect to the Queen and Ministry, and some of the cases have further light thrown on them by the papers here. There is a letter from an unknown person, to Lord Rochester, dated 3rd February, 1702-3, complaining of the Primate and the Bishop of Derry; at the table of the latter the health of the Princess Sophia is said to be the only toast. In January, 1711, a seditious letter addressed to Father Murphy, Cavan, was dropped at the Four Courts, and a copy of it is among the correspondence. In November, 1712, we have the examination of Richard Spann, of Dublin, as to language used by Rev. Mr. White, a Protestant divine, against the Queen and her Ministry.

A sensation seems to have been created in Dublin by the finding in Lloyd's Coffee House on Cork Hill on 27th November, 1712, of some treasonable and scurrilous verses entitled "Honest Resolves," a copy of which accompanies the depositions taken in the matter. Edward Lloyd, proprietor of the tavern, and some members of his family, were examined, and so serious a view did Government take of these verses, that on the case being laid before the Council, a proclamation was issued, offering £500 reward for the author of the verses and £300 for the publisher. (See list of Proclamations, No. 46-1714. Twenty-third Report, Deputy Keeper of the Records, page 58).

In June, 1713, Mary Lloyd gave information to her father, the said Edward Lloyd, that at three o'clock in the morning of the 23rd, six gentlemen appeared on the balcony of the Globe tavern, and drank whig toasts, which she, (unseen by them) heard and wrote down. Colonel Johnson, son of Baron Johnson, and one Buttel were two of the party.

Among the satirical pieces connected with the politics of the day is preserved in this collection a curious one entitled, "The Chequer, or one with t'other, a miscellany of old plays revived by a Medley of new poets" which is endorsed "Plays writ by members in Ireland, by Mr. Crow." From a large number of titles of such plays, the following are selected to give some idea of their character, each no doubt referring to some well known incident or scandal of the period.

The Beau's duel, or a soldier for the ladies, by Brig——r
Cun——ham, dedicated to Lord Shel——n.

Le Malade Imaginaire, by Sir Thomas So——ell.

The Modish husband, by Sir Stand. Har——ge.

Sir Timothy Treat-all, acted at the Queen's Arms Tavern, Fleet Street, by Mr. Al——n Brod——ck.

As bearing on matters intimately connected with the prosperity of the country, and the cares and duties of the Government of the day, there will be found among the papers, correspondence and reports on such subjects as the supposed introduction of the plague into Kerry. In January 1710/1 letters arrived from Baltimore announcing that it was reported there that a Dantzic vessel had brought the plague to Kerry, and the lords justices at once caused communications to be addressed to Mr. James Julian, the High Sheriff, and Maurice FitzGerald, the Knight of Kerry, directing them to take active steps to prevent the spread of the sickness. They also sent a long detailed report of their proceedings to Ormond.

About the same time, the Council directed Captain Thomas Burgh, surveyor general, to report on the anchorage at Dalkey island, with a view to its being used as Quarantine quarters for ships coming from plague-stricken places. Captain Burgh reported that it was unfit for such a purpose, as no ship could lie there with safety, and the sum of £4,311 4s., was his estimate for the construction of a secure harbour and pier. Certain persons were also appointed by the Lord Mayor of Dublin to report on the establishment of a harbour at Dalkey and the report bears date February 1711/2. In November 1702 Sir Thomas Southwell had reported as to the harbours on the west coast of Ireland.

In November, 1706, there is a report of the Commissioners of the the Revenue on the light houses round the coast, which deals with those at Howth, Hook Tower, Kinsale, and Isle Magee.

Lord Abercorn wrote to the authorities from Strabane in September 1714, stating that the Light House patent which had been granted to Sir Robert Reading, (who had had a salary of £500 for having expended £2,600 in the erection of 6 light houses) now formed part of his marriage settlement, he having married a daughter of Sir Robert and his wife, the Countess of Mountrath. Lord Abercorn begged that he be allowed to surrender the patent, owing to his inability to perform the requirements of the House of Commons, by reason of the heavy charges in building additional light houses and the expense of maintaining lights in them. The petitioner in this case was James, 6th Earl of Abercorn, and though unconnected with public affairs, it may be of interest to notice here that in the collection are copies of letters written by him in January and February 1712/3 to his wife, his son Lord Paisley, and Lord Anglesey, relative to the family claim to the dukedom of Chatelherault in France, which enter fully into the case and furnish many details.

There is a curious report in French on the planting of timber, and the state of the country districts is frequently referred to. In December, 1728, we find that the three preceding harvests had been bad, so much so that a subscription list was opened for the supply of imported corn for the use of the poor in the North, which was largely contributed to.

A document of much interest, written from Kinsale in 1695, gives Southwell the current rates of commodities, which are stated to be subject to constant fluctuations in that part of Ireland, according as the coast is secured from privateers, or not.

Some light is also thrown on the payment of rent. Thus in December, 1704, William Taylor, who had been passing accounts in Chancery connected with Sir John Percivall's estate in county Cork, writes that he cannot see how the tenants can discharge their rents in that part of the kingdom, owing to the "general calamities of the times." At a later period, in July 1735, Edward Brinn, writing from Kinsale, says that the rents of Scilly cannot be got in, the poverty of the people being so great; there is such scarcity of provisions, that he has been obliged to send them money and other necessaries for their fishing craft.

Lot 134 is a volume almost entirely conversant with the proceedings of the Town Council of Dublin in the later years of Queen Anne's reign, which occupied so large a share of public attention. An attempt was made to establish the right of the lord Mayor for the time being to nominate three candidates and to compel the Aldermen to elect one of them as his successor; similarly as to the Sheriffs. This led to a protracted contest between the Aldermen of the city on the one side and the Lord Lieutenant and Council, acting on the powers of approval and disapproval given them by the new Rules, on the other. The lords justices wrote on 3rd of May 1712 that Alderman Barlow, who had been disapproved of before by the Government, had been again elected lord Mayor, and their Secretary, Dawson, wrote later on that the example of Dublin had had an evil effect on other corporations, instancing particularly that of Coleraine.

The lords justices expressed much satisfaction on being informed that Her Majesty permitted them to express disapproval of the Mayor and Sheriffs elected ; matters were then amicably arranged, for there is a draft of an Address to Ormond from the lord Mayor in September, 1712, apologizing for the recent conduct of the Town Council, and rejoicing that good relations had been re-established between the City and the Government. It is marked, "given 30th September to Lord Donegall," and "1st October, Archbishop brought this paper from y^e Recorder." There is a "brief of the City case," in Sir Richard Cox's autograph, which commences, "Faction is the root of it, and 'tis a branch of the silly division amongst Irish Protestants into Whig and Tory." Accompanying these papers is a list of the Common Council of the City of Dublin, by their Guilds, annotated with regard to the conduct of each member on the recent occasion. Thus, "red letters stand for staunch churchmen ; black for Wh—g or P——terian, black part and red part for those that have trimmed."

One of the most important papers in this volume is Chief Justice Cox's judgment (in his own handwriting), dated 30th April, 1714, on the case of the Sheriffs of Dublin, which holds that the office of Sheriff is not void at the end of the year, and that the Sheriffs are bound to act until their successors are sworn in.

Bartholomew Van Homrigh when lord Mayor in 1697 petitioned for a collar of SS in lieu of the mayoral one taken to France by Terence Dermott, and there is a copy of a King's letter for payment to him of 800 guineas, to procure a collar, which was to have a medal with the King's effigy attached to it.

In 1712, new buildings were required to be erected in the castle for the Treasury and other offices, such as those of the Auditor General, Commissary General, Registrar of Deeds, Barrack Board, &c., and Captain Burgh, surveyor general, reported against a site that had been proposed in the back yard of the castle, inasmuch as the only way to these offices would be through Castle-lane, a narrow passage ; the buildings also would be too near the "rampe" leading into the upper yard, which would then become a public thoroughfare. Secretary Dawson wrote to Southwell, giving reasons for adopting one (of what he considered) two more suitable sites ; 1. the place where the old Council Chamber stood, as the new one is to be within the Castle. 2. part of the yard attached to Lucas's coffee house, which adjoins the Castle wall, to which a passage might be made from the new way into the Castle : Lord Cork's Commissioners might be induced to sell. Southwell on behalf of the Government, made a proposal to purchase for £1,200, Lord Burlington's interest in the Barbadoes or Tom's Coffee House, &c., in Castle-street. This stood at the Castle Gate, on the right hand side turning into the Castle, and was finally demolished by the Commissioners for widening the streets leading to the Castle. In April, 1712, there had been proposals from Lord Cork's creditors as to this site, and in November of that year, John Rathborne was treating with Government for compensation for some houses on Cork Hill, through which a passage was to be opened to the Castle. The business in his case was long delayed, for as late as January, 1723, the Duke of Grafton recommended Rathborne's case and payment to him, in compensation for houses knocked down in making a proper passage from the Blind Quay to the Castle.

A document dated 10th May, 1728, was drawn up by Thomas Burgh, Surveyor General of Works, as to building a Parliament House. The Commissioners of the Revenue, who appear to have made representations on the same subject some time before to Lord Rochester, in April, 1703, wrote further on the pressing necessity for a new Custom House, the old one being ready to fall.

Dublin bar received its share of attention, for in December, 1721, the House of Commons passed a resolution in favour of Captain John Perry's proposals for increasing the depth of water over it, and making a basin for ships to lie in. With regard to the convenience of travellers between the city and Ringsend (most of whom would be on their way to or from England), the establishment of a proper service of cars between Ringsend and Lazy Hill (the present Townsend-street) was under consideration.

In 1712, the Trustees of the Hospital to be founded under Dr. Stevens' will petitioned the Government for a piece of ground in the Phoenix Park, held from the Crown by Thomas Proby, which he was willing to resign.

On the 3rd July, 1701, General Erle, in writing to Southwell, from Dublin, took occasion to relate how "this town has been transported in expressing their zeal for his Majesty upon the ceremony of erecting the King's statue a horseback, which was performed [on the anniversary of] the day he fought the battle of the Boyne"

The collection under notice contains a number of papers and documents connected with the various forms of Religion, whether of the Established Church, the Roman Catholic, the Dissenting bodies, or that professed by the French Huguenots, who formed, what afterwards became, flourishing colonies in Ireland, and whose ministers and their flocks were the especial care of the Irish Government. With regard to the Established Church, in addition to the necessary correspondence as to vacant bishoprics, unions of parishes, appointments of clergy to Crown livings, &c., we learn that a bill for translating the see and cathedral of Tuam to Galway was transmitted by the Irish Council to England; this was stated to have originated in the Commons house, and was drafted in the "hope of making Galway a protestant town, and so, a great security to that part of Connaught." There is also some correspondence as to convocation, in 1703, when Ormond was addressed on the subject of provincial writs. The original address of the clergy of the Church in the province of Ulster to King William the Third in 1690 is preserved, and it contains a large number of autograph signatures.

There is a very remarkable memorandum on the Union with Scotland, as it might affect Ireland, the latter portion of which deals with episcopacy, but the earlier part may be quoted here as well. It suggests that England and Scotland will probably unite in keeping Ireland poor. England totally destroyed our woollen trade, so it is to be feared she and Scotland will destroy our linen trade in favour of the latter, or rather, England will encourage the linen trade in Scotland, to prevent the Scotch falling too much into the woollen trade. The Union is desirable, and England may turn the balance at any time, if she take Ireland into the scale, for we should send Members to both houses, staunch to episcopacy and the English interest. "Episcopacy is so interwoven with our laws and constitution, so agreeable to Monarchy and so gentlemanlike a Government in the Church that we are fond of it." The writer adds that the English protestants in Ireland, who chiefly make up our representatives, are immediately descended from England.

In 1705, the Archbishop of Dublin was in correspondence with Secretary Southwell, on the question of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church being exempt from visitation.

After the war, it was found necessary to have a special chaplain (or curate) to minister to the spiritual wants of Charlemont Garrison; the Rev. John Dunlop, who was appointed, was refused maintenance by the rector of the parish, and the matter was referred to Lord Charlemont, who reported that the Garrison had great need of an additional clergyman.

In 1711, the heads of the Established Church became very active in taking steps for the conversion of the Irish people professing the Roman Catholic faith, and schemes were drafted and reasons offered for incorporating a Society, by means of which they were to have sent amongst them Established Church ministers skilled in the Irish language, to read the Scriptures and preach to them in their own tongue. There is a draft of a royal letter (without date) on the state of the papists in Ireland.

A copy of King James's Latin letter to the Pope "written with the King's own hand" from Dublin in 1689, together with a copy of a national letter to that Monarch, against the British, "mended by y^e Popish bishop of Clogher," 1688, exist, and there is also a copy of the Indulgence granted by Pope Alexander VIII, found in July, 1690, in the pocket of a rebel killed in Ireland.

One of the lots (135) is a volume of letters and papers relating to the Dissenters. Hugh Rainey of Magherafelt, by his will, proved in 1708, made provision for the education of 24 boys as Presbyterians, and an Act of Parliament was to be promoted, to confirm the will, &c.; a note in Southwell's handwriting specifies that a clause should be inserted, to prevent their being brought up in principles prejudicial to the Established Church.

In 1708, Narcissus, Archbishop of Dublin, petitioned, that no support out of the grant of £1,200 per annum from King William to the Presbyterian ministers, be allowed to the dissenting teacher established in Drogheda, who was drawing people away from their allegiance to the Church, and the Grand Jury of Drogheda made a presentment against the Northern Presbytery for setting up a conventicle there. From about the last mentioned period to the end of Queen Anne's reign, the presbyteries seemed to have become active in asserting themselves, and their boldness gave Government and the Established Church some trouble. A printed "Call to prayer—a serious call from the city to the country," (a copy of which is among the papers) was largely circulated among their members in 1712, and may have had the effect of stirring them up to fresh efforts in furthering their views and tenets. The Grand Jury of Cavan presented against a Synod that met at Belturbet, and the Dean of Kilmore and others wrote full accounts to the Castle, asking that steps be taken against such in the interests of the Established Church. On this the Presbyterian ministers of the North addressed Ormond, the lords justices, and even the Queen herself, against any further "persecutions intended against the congregation at Belturbet."

In August, 1713, Mr. Westenra Waring, High Sheriff of the County Down, forwarded to the Castle a letter from Captain Brent Spencer, dated from Lisburn in 1713, stating that on his learning that a certain Mr. M^cCracken intended to preach there again, he sent two constables, but the doors were locked and M^cCracken would have been rescued on any attempt to arrest him. He added that a company of foot might be ordered out for the purpose from Belfast. Government would not order McCracken's prosecution, but the justices at Belfast declared their intention of undertaking it.

As bearing on the Huguenot refugees, a letter was written by the Castle authorities to the Duke of Shrewsbury in January, 1695, enclosing an address of the Commons and a memorial of Baron de Virazell, chief agent of the French protestants here. There is also a long document in French, which is undated, containing Dean Abbadie's proposals for a French colony. Jacques Abbadie was chaplain to the Duke of Schomberg, and there is a petition from him, written in his native language, praying for employment.

On the arrival of Ormond as lord lieutenant in 1703, the French colony addressed him, and there are preserved the "Harangue" of congratulation offered on their behalf by Pastor Barbier, and portions of a sermon preached before His Grace, by Monsieur Lauzac, both in French.

As in the case of many other bodies, dissensions began to rise among the members of the Huguenot congregations scattered through the country. Pastor David wrote a long account (in French) to Ormond of an unseemly occurrence that took place in the congregation at Kilkenny in June, 1705, through M. Renoult's desire of being sole French minister there. In 1713, Jourdan wrote also to Ormond, detailing an unhappy division that had occurred in the French Church at Waterford.

Perhaps the most interesting volume in the series is that which contains rough copies and drafts of letters from Sir Robert Southwell to Lord Nottingham, written during the eventful days of June, July, and August, 1690. It would seem as if Macaulay were unaware of this collection of contemporary letters, dealing with a period of so much importance in his great work; while careful to enumerate all his authorities, he makes no mention of Sir Robert Southwell's correspondence. One of the letters dated 9th June, written from Chester, gives an account of King William's journey from the time of his leaving Kensington on 4th. Southwell accompanied the King all through the campaign as principal Secretary of State, and in Volume 14¹ is a coloured plan of the King's quarters, as laid out in each place, showing the names of the ministers in attendance, the suite, &c., with the positions assigned each: Southwell's quarters are next those of the King himself.

The party embarked on board the "Cleveland" yacht at Hoylake on 11th June, and reaching Carrickfergus, they sailed up to Belfast. There are letters from camp at Loughbrickland, Dundalk, and Drogheda, and that from the latter, dated 1st July, gives a full account of the slight wound received the day before by King William, when reconnoitring; "at this instant comes news to my tent, that Count Schomberg got over some of the upper fords (of the Boyne) and defeated some squadrons of the enemy's horse." The King ordered his tents to be taken down, and having won the decisive victory of the Boyne, he is found encamped next day at Duleek, from which place Southwell again wrote, describing the battle and narrating the deaths of Duke Schomberg and Dr. Walker; in his letter he mentions that the King had directed the Duke of Portland to draw up an account of the battle. On 4th July, the army was near Swords, and from the camp there, Southwell gives an account of King James's flight, as the story had reached his party; he adds "I suppose Duke Schomberg's body will be deposited in y^e Chief Church in Dublin, till there be opportunity of some solemn interment."

The letter from camp at Finglas is of much interest and gives a still fuller account of the flight of the defeated King. "Duke Tircconnell lost much in camp, since I have in my hands his entry book of private letters, &c." "This day being Sunday (6th July), His Majesty rode in great splendor to the cathedral, where all services of the Church were solemnly performed. The bishop of Meath and the bishop of Limerick were there, and Dr. King, an excellent man and a great sufferer, preached much to the purpose. The old Mayor and Aldermen did the honors of the City As our King, who looked and appeared this day better than ever I saw him, returned by the Castle, he rode in to see the place, but did not alight."

The camp was next pitched at Crumlin, from which place the King moved on 11th by Castlewarden to Inchiquire, close to Ballitore, county Kildare, and on 14th, writing from that place, Southwell gives a full account of the King's proceedings in Dublin, in restoring the magistrates, seeing the clergy, appointing Commissioners as to the rebels' property, pricking Sheriffs, &c. The next letters are from Wells, Bennetsbridge, and Carrick, from which place, Southwell writes on 24th July that Waterford had surrendered on the same terms as Drogheda. On the 27th the King left the camp at Carrick, and went back to Chapelizod, intending to pass over into England, but on 29th Southwell states that he had changed his mind and resolved to turn back to the army again, his idea being that once he secured a passage over the Shannon, he might then return home; Sir Cloudesley Shovel was to be ordered to hasten to Plymouth with the larger vessels of the fleet under his command and the smaller were to remain in the river at Waterford till further order. There is a letter of 4th August from camp at Goldenbridge, and several written from the King's camp at Limerick during the siege, which was raised on 30th August. As descriptions by an eye-witness, these last are important, minutely detailing, as they do, all the circumstances of the siege. In one, Southwell speaks of their men being preserved in the trenches "by an invention of woolbags, which are planted like palissadoes before those who work, and are musket proof. These are made by one Meesters, a Dutchman, who is comptroller of our artillery, an excellent artist, and were never made use of before unless a little at the siege of Bonn." "Having written thus far at 5 of y^e clock (22nd August) we heard a great shout from the Hill, and the meaning is that the Tower is already fallen down."

On 25th, there is an account of bombs, and hot bullets being thrown into the town, which set fire to houses, hay, &c., taking many hours to quench. "His Majesty did very unwillingly consent to this expedient, but most of the officers were urgent for it, as the only way to expedite the work." The previous day, Southwell wrote that when the King rode out to observe the city on its supposed weak side, and only Count Schomberg and another with him, the Count's horse was shot by a musket bullet.

"I have wrote by His Majesty's orders to Sir Cloudsly Shovell, that if he should happen to find at his coming to the Shannon, a squadron of the French that were much superior to him, he should forbear to make any rash attempt."

"By the post that went this day, your lordship had all that relates to the misfortune that befel our Artillery," a disaster fully described in a letter of 13th August. It happened at Cullen, within ten miles of the camp, when Sarsfield at the head of 500 horse and 60 dragoons fell suddenly on a small convoy, conveying eight pieces of artillery, small bridge boats, tools, &c. The guard consisted of about 80 troopers and 12 Switzers.

After these exciting scenes and camp life with the army, Southwell turned his attention to the settlement of the kingdom, beginning with the judges and law officers. Pine, Ryves, Cox, Temple, Rochfort, Keating, Echlin, and Hartstonge are among the names of those suggested for places. In a memorandum of 30th September, 1690, he notices that there is a great defect in arms and ammunition in the kingdom. As to the oath to be imposed on those that will remain inhabitants of Dublin, he has doubts of its being seasonable, it being of the highest importance to His Majesty that the Irish be reclaimed and gently drawn to submit to his authority.

During the next year, events of the utmost moment in the history of the country were being transacted, and this collection throws further light on the conduct of some of the actors in this very real historical drama. Mr. Justice Cox in his capacity as Governor of the county Cork, showed an amount of activity that would have done credit to an experienced military commander, while at the same time he exercised the functions of a Judge of Assize for Munster. There is a letter from him to Southwell, dated 8th October, 1691, in which he says that Athlone having been taken and Aughrim won, and with Galway and Limerick in our hands, the war is at an end, "and if matters are well managed, there can never be an Irish rebellion in this Kingdom any more." He then proceeds to give an account of his government in Cork; "as for the enemy, having, as I believe, killed and hanged not less than 3,000, whilst I staid in the County of Cork, and taken from them, in cattle and plunder at least to the value of £12,000" he says that he felt himself in a position to divide £380 among Colonel Townsend's troop, after which Colonel Beecher and the Western gentlemen got a prey of £3,000. He claimed to have brought the Militia up to 36 troops in 6 regiments, and 26 companies in 3 regiments, and to have kept a frontier, 80 miles long, from Tallow to Sherkin, and all did not cost county Cork above £1,200.

The general correspondence included in this collection extends to the year 1744, but the letters from about 1715 to that year are comparatively few in number.

Reference to the catalogue of all the documents which has been prepared, will afford a means of obtaining information on many other subjects of interest not touched on in this report.
